CAROLINA SURVIVORS ARRIVE IN NEW YORK

Sixteen Dead and Eleven Missing as Result of Sinking of Porto Rican Liner by U-Boat--Detailed Story of the Attack and the Voyage in Open Boats Until Rescued.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 5.—Sixteen men and women dead and eleven missing is the toll taken by the German submarine which sank the Porto Rican liner Carolina, according to latest available reports today. An official check of the passengers and members of the crew is expected later in the day after officers of the company have checked up the report of Captain Barbour of the ill-fated liner.

The captain of the Carolina, with 154 passengers and 94 members of the crew of the sunken vessel arrived here this morning aboard the American schooner Eva B. Douglas. In addition to the survivors landed here 17 men, two women and one member of the ship's crew, were accounted for at Lewes, Del., and 29 at Atlantic City. Eight sailors of the Carolina were saved by the coast patrol in the vicinity of Barnegat inlet.

The sixteen known dead were lost in the capsizing of the motor lifeboat from which nineteen were later rescued and landed at Lewes, Del. The sixteen were unable to cling to the overturned craft as did the 19 who were saved later.

In compliance with a request by wireless from Captain Barbour the officials of the Porto Rico line dispatched a tug down the coast to meet the Eva B. Douglas late yesterday, and she was brought to this port in tow early today, while the survivors for blocks around her pier were closed and United States troops with fixed bayonets held a curious crowd of relatives and spectators at bay. Friends and relatives of the survivors were held back from the pier until most of the survivors had been permitted to leave.

Preparation had been made for the arrival of the passengers and crew of the sunken liner by the Red Cross and the Women's Motor Corps. Clothing, food and medical supplies were waiting at the pier when the Eva B. Douglas docked but little help was needed by many of the survivors except for clothing.

Many of the survivors told of their experiences in the open sea and of the attack and sinking of the Carolina by the hostile U-boat. For the most part their stories of the sinking agree in all important details.

According to their stories the Carolina was attacked shortly after six o'clock Sunday night. The passengers were in the dining saloon at the time and had just finished a fire drill when a shot was fired across the bows of the steamer.

Shortly afterward a shrapnel shell exploded above the vessel in the vicinity of the wireless operator's quarters and a final shot across the stern brought the big vessel to a halt.

Captain Barbour had changed the course of the vessel and put on full steam heading toward shore after the wireless operator had received word that a hostile submarine was in the immediate zone. The big vessel had scarcely changed her course before the attacking U-boat rose to the surface and circled around her. It was then that the firing began.

Enest C. Fox of Washington, D. C., who has been doing government work in Porto Rico, was one of the survivors who told of the sinking. "Most of the passengers were in the dining saloon when the attack was made," said Cox. "A few of us were having a card game."

"Suddenly, without warning, a shell passed across the bow of the vessel and was followed by a burst of shrapnel shell above the liner. Neither did any damage. The U-boat circled around the steamer but none of her officers put out in a boat and none came aboard. All of the boats were lowered and filled in good order and plenty of time was allowed to get the passengers and crew off before the German commander began circling her again and pouring shells into her on both sides. She did not stop for nearly an hour, and when she went down she was burning. The Germans did not get any of Captain Barbour's papers.

"I got a good view of the submarine. She looked to be about 300 feet long and she carried two guns. Lieutenant P. D. A. Carpenter, U. S. T. R.ican training camp on furlough to his home at Basking Ridge, N. J., told of the wonderful coolness of the passengers and crew.

fired once to warn our wireless operator against sending out any information.

"There were ten boats on the Carolina, five on each side and they were all lowered safely. This was about 6:15 o'clock Sunday night and it was still light enough to see everything that went on.

"The loading of the boats and the conduct of the passengers and crew bespoke courage and bravery. The women passengers did not go into hysterics except in one or two cases and these were soon quieted. Altogether we were in the open sea about twenty hours, and were picked up by the schooner Monday about midday, I think."

E. W. Vogel, chief wireless operator on the sunken steamer told of receiving an "S. O. S." call from the Isabella B. Wiley, being shelled by a submarine and giving her location. After informing Captain Barbour, who ordered full steam ahead and a change of course, Vogel told of going to the dining saloon while his assistant held the post in the wireless room.

"Shortly after I entered the dining room I heard a shot and immediately hurried to the wireless room, sending Werner, my assistant, to take the position of the ship.

"I then grabbed the key and sent out a 'S. O. S.' call. My message read:

"Carolina being gunned by German submarine."

A few moments later I got an answer from Cape May and almost simultaneously one came from the submarine.

"Stop using your wireless and we won't shoot," came the warning.

"Despite this warning," I sent out another call for help and in answer there came a shot. I sent word to the captain asking for orders and just then the Brooklyn navy yard inquired our position. I did not give it as the captain ordered me to stop. For every time I sent a call out we received a shot and with women and children aboard we simply had to surrender.

"I left the ship with Captain Barbour and the first officer after the ten boats had been lowered but before leaving I tore up our code book and tossed it overboard, weighing down the pieces to make them sink."

A. T. Woodsbridge, of Montclair, N. J., said that after launching the five boats on either side of the Carolina they became separated for a time, but that later three of the boats joined five in which party he was rescued by the Eva B. Douglas.

"The submarine had two six-inch brass guns on her decks," said Woodsbridge, "and the deck proper appeared to be about 140 feet long."

Among the survivors were a number of United States army officers, including Lieut. R. J. Boyd, Syracuse, N. Y., and Second Lieut. D. Goldsmith, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Among other survivors were R. G. Hollingher, Columbus, O., and Miss Catherine B. Stern, Los Angeles, Cal.

City Fathers Decided to Divide Seven of Wards Into Two Districts Each--Readjustment Due to Women Voting.

Instead of thirteen voting districts Kingston will now have twenty polling places. This decision was reached when the city fathers at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening adopted unanimously the report of the committee on elections who submitted a lengthy report.

As usual no extra copy of the report was made for the press, but the report published recommended that the First, Fifth, Eighth, Ninth, Eleventh and Thirteenth wards remain as now constituted with one election district in each ward, and that the Second, Third, Fourth, Sixth, Seventh, Tenth and Twelfth wards be readjusted into two election districts.

It will be seen by this that six wards remain unchanged with one polling place each and that seven wards will have two polling places each, which will make a total of twenty polling places in Kingston at the next election.

The reason for the readjustment of some of the wards was due to the fact that with the women now having the privilege of voting it would be impossible to handle the vote in the wards that have been designated unless that had been done.

Other matters at the session will be found elsewhere.

Army and Navy Recruits.

Recruiting for both army and navy goes on briskly at the post office. William Prull and Walter Roehl, Andrew McCauley, Henry Spauldine enlisted Monday in the navy and were sent direct to New York by Postmaster DeWitt. Irvin Van Houten and Charles Guadagnola enlisted in the army today. They have gone to Poughkeepsie.

WAR AT A GLANCE

Despite their desperate attacks, the Germans have not been able to gain a foot of ground on the Aisne-Marne battle field during the past 24 hours.

The Germans concentrated strong pressure in the sector of Chezy, between the Ourcq and Marne rivers, but were thrown back with heavy losses as often as they tried to advance.

Chezy lies immediately north of Neuilly Wood where American troops gained their splendid success against the Germans on Monday. The Germans were trying to penetrate the woods but were hurled back by a powerful counter thrust delivered by the United States forces.

The Germans have continued to disregard the eastern flank of the Marne salient diverting all their attention to the western wing where they have been vainly trying to break through in the direction of Paris.

With General Foch's reserve army now standing in front of the Germans and barring the way to Paris, the chances of the Germans making a breach in the Allied line are slimmer now than they have been at any other time since the new offensive opened ten days ago.

The comparative lull on the Picardy and Flanders battle front continues.

This was the seventy-seventh day of the German grand offensive.

ANOTHER U-BOAT VICTIM REPORTED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

An Atlantic Port, June 5.—Another new victim has been added to the German U-boat's list in American coastal waters. It is the American auxiliary schooner Samuel G. Menel, News of the sinking of the schooner was brought here today when the Danish steamer Paris arrived from Central America with eleven members of the Menel's crew. The Menel was sunk Sunday by a submarine 175 miles south of Sandy Hook.

ALBANY WOULDN'T TAKE LON KEATOR

Because Board of Supervisors Had Neglected to Renew Contract With Penitentiary so Lon Goes to Jail Instead.

"Lon" Keator will not spend the next six months in the pen at Albany although he was sentenced to that institution Monday evening by Judge Schrick after a jury in police court had found Lon guilty of stealing chickens from Richard Wynkoop of Hurley avenue. Why Lon won't spend any time as a guest at Albany is due to the fact that the board of supervisors failed to renew the contract with that institution on and also failed to notify the police department or Judge Schrick to that effect.

The first intimation any one at the city hall had that the Albany pen was not for any prisoner from Ulster county was when Officer Reardon walked into police headquarters Tuesday afternoon accompanied by Lon who he had escorted to Albany that morning.

When Officer Reardon and Lon reached the pen at Albany the officer was informed that they would refuse to accept Lon and he would have to be taken back to Kingston.

This morning Judge Schrick changed Lon's sentence to read six months in the county jail.

It is rumored that Lon's attorney, E. A. McKiernan, is contemplating taking steps to have Lon released from jail on the ground that after being sentenced to the pen at Albany and sent there the sentence could not be changed to a term in the county hotel.

Retires From Coal Business.

Supervisor Frederick Wiedemann of the Fourth ward, who has been in the coal business for the past five years, has retired from business and sold his horses and wagons. He has made no plans for the future as yet.

CALL FOR 200,000 MEN COMING THURSDAY

These Are Part of the June Quota of 300,000 and Will Entrain June 20 to 24--With 35,000 Specialists and 40,000 Negroes the June Quota Will Be Complete.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 5.—Final plans for calling 200,000 selective service men to the colors were made by Provost Marshal General Crowder today and the call will be formally issued tomorrow. The movement to camp will begin June 24 and it is understood that every state in the Union with the exception of Arizona, will be called upon to furnish men. The calling into military service today of 40,000 colored selective service men, who will proceed to camp during the period of June 20 to 24, inclusive; the call previously made for 25,000 selectives who will take a two months course of training in various technical schools, beginning this month, and tomorrow's call for 200,000 men will bring the June call up to 265,000, leaving 35,000 men still to be called this month to bring the total up to 300,000, which is the number that has been fixed for June. It is likely that additional calls for men to take a course in mechanics will be issued to reach the quota.

110 NAMES ON CASUALTY LIST

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 5.—One hundred and ten casualties in the American Expeditionary Forces were announced by the war department today, divided as follows: Thirty-nine killed in action, thirteen died of wounds, six of disease, three of accident, forty-seven were wounded severely, and two were reported as missing in action.

The casualties among officers were particularly heavy. Those killed in action were Col. Bertram T. Clayton, Salisbury, N. C.; Captain Harry A. Bullock, Cambridge, Mass.; Captain Edward O. Fleur, Des Moines, Ia.; Lieut. Clarence Green, Winterset, Ia.; Lieut. Richard Mortimer, Jr., Tuxedo Park, N. Y.; Died of accident: Lieut. Howard R. Smith, Newcastle, Ind.; Severely wounded: Lieut. AMERICAN TROOPS IN FIERCE FIGHTS

Rushed to the Front to Take Part in the Battle for Paris, They Give a Splendid Account of Themselves Where Greatly Needed.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

With the American Army in France, June 5.—The most savage fighting that the Americans have yet taken part in since their arrival in France, took place at Neuilly Wood (north of Chateau Thierry) on the Aisne-Marne battle front. In this gently undulating wood the Americans delivered a brilliant counter attack against the Germans engaging the enemy in hand-to-hand fighting amidst the tangled piles of stumps that had been uprooted by the artillery fire.

The Americans swept the Germans back from the northern fringe of the wood and here proved themselves adepts with the bayonet.

Charging into gray ranks of the Boches the Americans broke up first one group and then another, heedless of the machine gun fire directed against them.

Our troops were rushed into the "Battle for Paris" at a high rate of speed, as the Germans were pressing forward on the Marne. Machine gunners were jammed into huge motor trucks that whirled along the dusty roads throughout Friday night, passing long rows of refugees. They pushed on past trains of artillery and arrived in the battle zone early in a certain morning. They took up their positions in shell wrecked buildings, in fields and everywhere that offered an opportunity, pouring out streams of lead from their machine guns into the ranks of the enemy. The Americans had the advantage of occupying higher ground than the attacking Boches.

When the Germans reached the outskirts of Chateau Thierry the allied artillery severely pounded their machine gunners, compelling them to take up new positions.

The Americans first entered the fighting near Chateau Thierry and blocked the attempts of the Germans to effect a lodgment on the southern bank of the Marne. Hundreds of Boches were slaughtered by machine gun fire as they tried to force a crossing, and hold it.

Comparatively few of the Germans in the battalion that crossed the Marne near Jaulgonne escaped death or capture. When the French and Americans counter-attacked a large number of the Germans were surrounded. Others fell beneath the withering blasts of machine gun fire or in the hand-to-hand fighting which developed.

American Red Cross units have been continually in action on the Marne front establishing countless canteens and aiding the refugees and wounded.

The fact that our soldiers were actually engaged in the fighting on the Marne was released by the censor after the information was given out in Tuesday's French war office communiqué.

American infantry on the Lorraine front successfully attacked the Germans on Monday morning, forcing them to retreat a mile and capturing some prisoners. Our losses in this fighting were comparatively light, although the Americans suffered somewhat from shell fire.

The American infantry gave a splendid account of itself in the fighting on the Marne battle field.

The chief glory in the opening encounters goes to the Marines. In the first day they smashed six German counter attacks and one the following night.

It was an inspiring sight to see the Americans marching up the hill, their tanned faces lighted by the glow of certain victory and a look of fearlessness in every eye. On through the shell raked roads they passed, establishing themselves on ground made historic by the first battle of the Marne nearly four years ago.

The largest number of Americans are engaged in this fighting since America entered the war.

France was still singing the praise of the American success at Cantigny on the Picardy battle front, when news came that the Yankees were upon the firing line between Soissons and Rheims helping the French to stem the German rush southward. Then the Cantigny victory was overshadowed.

Our troops first took up a position to support the French line on the (deleted) front. Then when an opportune time came they took up a stronger position on a ridge. They had hardly arrived when the Boches opened up, but the Germans got more than they had bargained for.

A lieutenant commanding a machine gun unit was so ambitious that he and his men were cut off for a while from their companions. But finally a way was opened through the German line. Other parts of the same machine gun outfit stalled near the Marne bridge, paved the way by taking a valuable hill and decimating a German machine gun battalion.

The hike of our troops to the battle zone carried them over rolling country, across a succession of hills and through picturesque valleys. The German push was so strong and so sudden that it carried them across freshly planted fields and thriving vineyards. Many civilians who were confident that the French would hold up the Boche drive, remained in their homes until shells began falling in the fields, killing their live stock.

Our troops passed hundreds of refugees with carts piled high with furniture. Others were pushing wheelbarrows and baby carriages. Still others carried the scant family treasures in small parcels.

The refugees slept in the open in constant dread of bombs from German airplanes. Whole families were seen sobbing bitterly over the loss of their homes, but when the long ranks of the sturdy young Americans swept by tears gave way to smiles and melancholy to bursts of cheering.

A feature that gives the American success at the Marne greater prominence and insures their prestige as fighters is the love and esteem of the French populace. Women kissed the wounded who were being borne to the rear on litters. Men and children joined in the ovation.

Our men found the new territory devoid of dugouts and trenches which forced the Germans to open fighting. This was hailed by the Americans. On the front lines are shallow breastworks or ditches, which are deep enough to enable the men to escape snipers' bullets and machine gun fire.

There was indifferent cannonading today.

The donkey mascot of an artillery regiment, named "Jazbo," a relic of Mexico, walked into the battle with a white penny fastened to his right ear. He followed the men like a dog. Another outfit had a big ant eater from Haiti as a mascot. It got its baptism of fire along with the donkey. Both got through unhurt. The dough boys are great for pets. There are dogs, kittens, and goats almost in the front line.

Although the battle on the Aisne-Marne front appears to have slackened down, the belief is general that it is only a breathing pause. Military critics expect the next blow to fall in the Montdidier-Noyon sector in a short time.

(The Montdidier-Noyon front lies on the southern flank of the salient which the Germans drove towards Amiens in their offensive on the Picardy Plains. There are Americans on the battle line immediately south of Montdidier.)

It is known that the Germans still have large available reserves on the Soissons-Rheims front. The French are effectively holding the Germans and are expected to strike a telling blow in the Rheims district, where the Germans have been unable to advance.

The German losses have grown heavier hour by hour. For four days the French held Troesnes (on the Ourcq river north of Chateau Thierry) in the face of hourly assaults. The poilus had no chance to sleep or nothing to eat. Three times the French evacuated the village, only to recapture it in counter attacks.

ENROLLED 63 BOYS UP TO NOON

Up to noon today 63 boys who had reached the age of 21 years enrolled in Kingston. At the armory, where the boys residing down town are to register, 38 had enrolled, and at the surrogate's office, where the up town boys were to register, 25 had enrolled. The offices will be kept open until 9 o'clock this evening to give all boys who come under the regulations a chance to enroll.

NATIONAL ARMY DRILL FRIDAY

About thirty young men who expect to be sent away to training camp this summer met at the armory with Robert R. Rodie on Tuesday evening to drill. These drills are proving so successful that it was decided to hold the next drill this Friday evening at the armory and every young man in the draft age is invited to attend.

The fundamental points of the drill are given and the boys who are attending the drill find that it will help them greatly when they reach training camp. Every young man who expects sooner or later to be called to the colors should make it a point to attend these drills at the armory.

CAROLINA SURVIVORS ARRIVE IN NEW YORK

Sixteen Dead and Eleven Missing as Result of Sinking of Porto Rican Liner by U-Boat--Detailed Story of the Attack and the Voyage in Open Boats Until Rescued.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 5.—Sixteen men and women dead and eleven others missing is the toll taken by the German submarine which sank the Porto Rican liner Carolina, according to latest available reports today. An official check of the passengers and members of the crew is expected later in the day after officers of the company have checked up the report of Captain Barbour of the ill-fated liner.

The captain of the Carolina, with 151 passengers and 94 members of the crew of the sunken vessel arrived here this morning aboard the American schooner Eva R. Douglas. In addition to the survivors landed here 17 men, two women and one member of the ship's crew, were accounted for at Lewis, Del., and 29 at Atlantic City. Eight sailors of the Carolina were saved by the coast patrol in the vicinity of Barnegat inlet.

The sixteen known dead were lost in the capsizing of the motor lifeboat from which nineteen were later rescued and landed at Lewis, Del. The sixteen were unable to cling to the overturned craft as did the 19 who were saved later.

In compliance with a request by wireless from Captain Barbour the officials of the Porto Rico line dispatched a tug down the coast to meet the Eva R. Douglas late yesterday, and she was brought to this port in tow early today, while the wharves for blocks around her pier were closed and United States troops with fixed bayonets held a curious crowd of relatives and spectators at bay. Friends and relatives of the survivors were held back from the pier until most of the survivors had been permitted to leave.

Preparation had been made for the arrival of the passengers and crew of the sunken liner by the Red Cross and the Women's Motor Corps. Clothing, food and medical supplies were waiting at the pier when the Eva R. Douglas docked but little help was needed by many of the survivors except for clothing. Many of the survivors told of their experiences in the open sea and of the attack and sinking of the Carolina by the hostile U-boat. For the most part their stories of the sinking agree in all important details.

According to their stories the Carolina was attacked shortly after six o'clock Sunday night. The passengers were in the dining saloon at the time and had just finished a fire drill when a shot was fired across the bows of the steamer.

Shortly afterward a shrapnel shell exploded above the vessel in the vicinity of the wireless operator's quarters and a final shot across the stern brought the big vessel to a halt. Captain Barbour had changed the course of the vessel and put on full steam heading toward shore after the wireless operator had received word that a hostile submarine was in the immediate zone. The big vessel had scarcely changed her course before the attacking U-boat rose to the surface and circled around her. It was then that the firing began.

Ensign C. Fox of Washington, D. C., who has been doing government work in Porto Rico, was one of the survivors who told of the sinking. "Most of the passengers were in the dining saloon when the attack was made," said Cox. "A few of us were Frank a card game."

Suddenly, without warning, a shell passed across the bow of the vessel and was followed by a burst of shrapnel shell above the liner. Neither did any damage. The U-boat circled around the steamer but none of her officers put out in a boat and she lowered and filled in good order. The passengers and crew got on board the German commander began to circle her again and pouring shells shot for nearly an hour, and when the sun went down she was burning. The Germans did not get any of Captain Barbour's papers.

fired once to warn our wireless operator against sending out any information.

"There were ten boats on the Carolina, five on each side and they were all lowered safely. This was about 5:15 o'clock Sunday night and it was still light enough to see everything that went on."

E. W. Vogel, chief wireless operator on the sunken steamer told of receiving an "S. O. S." call from the submarine and giving her location. After informing Captain Barbour, who ordered full steam ahead and a change of course, Vogel told of going to the dining saloon while his assistant held the post in the wireless room.

"Shortly after I entered the dining room I heard a shot and immediately hurried to the wireless room, sending Verner, my assistant, to take the position of the ship."

"I then grabbed the key and sent out a 'S. O. S.' call. My message read:

"Carolina being gunned by German submarine."

"A few moments later I got an answer from Cape May and almost simultaneously one came from the submarine."

Among the survivors were a number of United States army officers, including Lieut. R. J. Boyd, Syracuse, N. Y., and Second Lieut. D. Goldsmith, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Among other survivors were R. C. Hollinger, Columbus, O., and Miss Catherine B. Stern, Los Angeles, Cal.

City Fathers Decided to Divide Seven of Wards Into Two Districts Each--Readjustment Due to Women Voting.

Instead of thirteen voting districts Kingston will now have twenty polling places. This decision was reached when the city fathers at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening adopted unanimously the report of the committee on elections who submitted a lengthy report.

As usual no extra copy of the report was made for the press, but the fact that the women now having the privilege of voting it would be impossible to handle the vote in the wards that have been redistricted unless that had been done.

Other matters at the session will be found elsewhere.

Army and Navy Recruits.

Recruiting for both army and navy goes on briskly at the post office. William Prull and Walter Roehl, Andrew McCauley, Henry Spardie enlisted Monday in the navy and went direct to New York by Postmaster DeWitt. Irvin Van Houten and Charles Guadagnoli enlisted in the army today. They have gone to Poughkeepsie.

WAR AT A GLANCE

Despite their desperate attacks the Germans have not been able to gain a foot of ground on the Aisne-Marne battle field during the past 24 hours.

The Germans concentrated strong pressure in the sector of Chezy, between the Ourcq and Marne rivers, but were thrown back with heavy losses as often as they tried to advance.

Chezy lies immediately north of Neuilly Wood where American troops gained their splendid success against the Germans on Monday. The Germans were trying to penetrate the woods but were hurled back by a powerful counter thrust delivered by the United States forces.

The Germans have continued to disregard the eastern flank of the Marne salient diverting all their attention to the western wing where they have been vainly trying to break through in the direction of Paris.

With General Foch's reserve army now standing in front of the Germans and barring the way to Paris, the chances of the Germans making a breach in the Allied line are slimmer now than they have been at any other time since the new offensive opened ten days ago.

The comparative full on the Picardy and Flanders battle front continues.

This was the seventy-seventh day of the German grand offensive.

ANOTHER U-BOAT VICTIM REPORTED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

An Atlantic Port, June 5.—Another new victim has been added to the German U-boat's list in American coastal water. It is the American auxiliary schooner Samuel G. Menel. News of the sinking of the schooner was brought here today when the Danish steamer Paris arrived from Central America with eleven members of the Menel's crew. The Menel was sunk Sunday by a submarine 175 miles south of Sandy Hook.

ALBANY WOULDN'T TAKE LON KEATOR

Because Board of Supervisors Had Neglected to Renew Contract With Penitentiary so Lon Goes to Jail Instead.

"Lon" Keator will not spend the next six months in the pen at Albany although he was sentenced to that institution Monday evening by Judge Schirck after a jury in police court had found Lon guilty of stealing chickens from Richard Wynkoop of Hurley avenue. Why Lon won't spend any time as a guest at Albany is due to the fact that the board of supervisors failed to renew the contract with that institution on and also failed to notify the police department or Judge Schirck to that effect.

The first intimation any one at the city hall had that the Albany pen was not for any prisoner from Ulster county was when Officer Reardon walked into police headquarters Tuesday afternoon accompanied by Lon who he had escorted to Albany that morning.

When Officer Reardon and Lon reached the pen at Albany the officer was informed that they would refuse to accept Lon and he would have to be taken back to Kingston.

This morning Judge Schirck changed Lon's sentence to read six months in the county jail.

It is rumored that Lon's attorney, E. A. McKiernan, is contemplating taking steps to have Lon released from jail on the ground that after being sentenced to the pen at Albany and sent there the sentence could not be changed to a term in the county hotel.

CALL FOR 200,000 MEN COMING THURSDAY

These Are Part of the June Quota of 300,000 and Will Entrain June 20 to 24--With 35,000 Specialists and 40,000 Negroes the June Quota Will Be Complete.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 5.—Final plans for calling 200,000 selective service men to the colors were made by Provost Marshal General Crowder today and the call will be formally issued tomorrow. The movement to camp will begin June 24 and it is understood that every state in the Union with the exception of Arizona, will be called upon to furnish men. The calling into military service today of 40,000 colored selective service men, who will proceed to camp during the period of June 20 to 24, inclusive; the call previously made for 25,000 selectives who will take a two months course of training in various technical schools, beginning this month, and tomorrow's call for 200,000 men will bring the June quota to 365,000, leaving 35,000 men to be called this month to bring the total up to 400,000, which is the number that has been fixed for June. It is likely that additional calls for men to take a course in mechanics will be issued to reach the quota.

AMERICAN TROOPS IN FIERCE FIGHTS

Rushed to the Front to Take Part in the Battle for Paris, They Give a Splendid Account of Themselves Where Greatly Needed.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

With the American Army in France, June 5.—The most savage fighting that the Americans have yet taken part in since their arrival in France, took place at Neuilly Wood (north of Chateau Thierry) on the Aisne-Marne battle front. In this gently undulating wood the Americans delivered a brilliant counter attack against the Germans engaging the enemy in hand-to-hand fighting amidst the tangled piles of stumps that had been uprooted by the artillery fire.

The Americans swept the Germans back from the northern fringe of the wood and here proved themselves adepts with the bayonet.

Charging into gray ranks of the Boches the Americans broke up first one group and then another, heedless of the machine gun fire directed against them.

Our troops were rushed into the "Battle for Paris" at a high rate of speed, as the Germans were pressing forward on the Marne. Machine gunners were jammed into huge motor trucks that whirled along the dusty roads throughout Friday night, passing long rows of refugees. They pushed on past trains of artillery and arrived in the battle zone early in a certain morning. They took up their positions in shell wrecked buildings, in fields and everywhere that offered an opportunity, pouring out streams of lead from their machine guns into the ranks of the enemy. The Americans had the advantage of occupying higher ground than the attacking Boches.

When the Germans reached the outskirts of Chateau Thierry the allied artillery severely pounded their machine gunners, compelling them to take up new positions.

The Americans first entered the fighting near Chateau Thierry and blocked the attempts of the Germans to effect a lodgment on the southern bank of the Marne. Hundreds of Boches were slaughtered by machine gun fire as they tried to force a crossing, and hold it.

Comparatively few of the Germans in the battalion that crossed the Marne near Jaujonne escaped death or capture. When the French and Americans counter-attacked a large number of the Germans were surrounded. Others fell beneath the withering blasts of machine gun fire or in the hand-to-hand fighting which developed.

American Red Cross units have been continually in action on the Marne front establishing countless canteens and aiding the refugees and wounded.

The fact that our soldiers were actually engaged in the fighting on the Marne was released by the censor after the information was given out in Tuesday's French war office communique.

American infantry on the Lorraine front successfully attacked the Germans on Monday morning, forcing them to retreat a mile and capturing some prisoners. Our losses in this fighting were comparatively light, although the Americans suffered somewhat from shell fire.

The American infantry gave a splendid account of itself in the fighting on the Marne battle field.

The chief glory in the opening encounters goes to the Marines. In the first day they smashed six German counter attacks and one the following night.

It was an inspiring sight to see the Americans marching up the hill, their tanned faces lighted by the glow of certain victory and a look of fearlessness in every eye. On upon the shell raked roads they passed, establishing themselves on ground made historic by the first battle of the Marne nearly four years ago.

The largest number of Americans are engaged in this fighting since America entered the war.

France was still singing the praise of the American success at "Antony" on the Picardy battle front, when news came that the Yankees were upon the firing line between Soissons and Rheims helping the French to stem the German rush southward. Then the Cantigny victory was overshadowed.

Our troops first took up a position to support the French line on the (deleted) front. Then when an opportune time came they took up a stronger position on a ridge. They had hardly arrived when the Boches opened up, but the Germans got more than they had bargained for.

A lieutenant commanding a machine gun unit was so ambitious that he and his men were cut off for a while from their companions. But finally a way was opened through the German line. Other parts of the same machine gun outfit stationed near the Marne bridge, paved the way.

by taking a valuable hill and decimating a German machine gun battalion.

The hike of our troops to the battle zone carried them over rolling country, across a succession of hills and through picturesque valleys. The German push was so strong and so sudden that it carried them across freshly plowed fields and thriving meadows. Many civilians who were confident that the French would hold up the Boche drive remained in their homes until shells began falling in the midst of their lives.

Our troops passed hundreds of refugees with carts piled high with furniture. Others were pushing wheelbarrows and baby carriages. Still others carried the scant family treasures in small parcels.

The refugees slept in the open in constant dread of bombs from German airplanes. Whole families were seen sobbing bitterly over the loss of their homes, but when the long ranks of the sturdy young Americans swept by tears gave way to smiles and melancholy to bursts of cheering.

A feature that gives the American success at the Marne greater prominence and insures their prestige as fighters is the love and esteem of the French populace. Women kissed the wounded who were being borne to the rear on litters. Men and children joined in the ovation.

Our men found the new territory devoid of dugouts

What do you look for in a cigarette?

YOU want fragrance, of course—and smoothness—and body, so you know you're really smoking. No one tobacco can give you everything you want.

You can get these different qualities only by combining the flavors of different tobaccos.

It takes twelve different tobaccos—five Turkish and seven American—to produce the flavor that has made Mecca the favorite cigarette of over a million smokers.

These different tobaccos are not just mixed, but are still-blended.

The twelve tobaccos are placed in the blending-still, and moist heat is passed through until all the different flavors are drawn into one, much as the full flavor of tea is drawn out by steeping. Only in this way can be obtained the true Mecca flavor.

EXAMINATIONS IN SPELLING

A competitive examination in spelling in the town of Esopus was held at Port Ewen recently to select the two best spellers to represent town at a county spelling contest to be held at the county fair at Ellenville in August; there to select the best speller in the county to represent it at the state fair at Syracuse for the championship of the state. The contest was in charge of the district superintendent, John U. Gillette, whose plan of procedure was recommended by the agricultural authorities of the state for use throughout the state. Each district had its preliminary contest to select two spellers to the town contest on Friday, May 31, 1918.

Not all the school districts were represented. The following are those who appeared. They stood up in a row and the superintendent began on the 5,000 words prepared by the state authorities. The whole line stood for some time before any were eliminated. After a half hour attack the line became shattered in a few places but the last three or four contestants gave the superintendent the time of his life. He was due at New Paltz at 1:30 o'clock to conduct the contest there but it seemed that the 5,000 words would have to be exhausted before the finish. But finally all were eliminated. The same condition practically obtained at New Paltz which was started a little late on account of the Esopus contestants putting up so long a fight.

The following were the Esopus contestants, and each deserved commendation—Louise Polhemus, Albert E. Brownrigg, Jeanette Hines, Arthur Schaaf, Gertrude Mains, Martin Munnely, Elsie M. Jacobson, Helen Wells, Helen Madsen, Ralph S. Shultis, Mary Caparra, Helen Snyder, Grace Fish, Mildred Wells and Eugenia Freer.

Mildred Wells and Eugenia Freer were declared the winners and are both from district No. 7, Rifton (Rock School.) Miss Anna Devine, a graduate from New Paltz Normal, teacher.

At New Paltz the following entered the contest with credit.

Carl Malsenholder, Beatrice Roosa Elizabeth T. Boettiger, John Helmer, Peter Michael, Lewis Woolsey, Burton Abrams, Mabel LeFever, Aurora Vasque, Lila Rouab, Blakelock Pierson and Mildred F. Harp.

Carl Malsenholder and Beatrice Roosa were the successful contestants, and are from district No. 1, New Paltz, under the control of the New Paltz Normal School, Dr. John C. Bliss, principal.

HELPFUL HINTS.

Save all vegetable liquors in which vegetables are cooked to add to various foods. Potato water may be used in yeast, bread, gravies and griddle cakes. As the mineral salts are largely dissolved in the water while cooking the vegetables it is economy to save every bit and use it in the food in some way. A tablespoonful of condensed milk added to a bowl of cream that has been whipped, stirring it in well, adds to its flavor and increases the amount that much.

A small flashlight is a great convenience around closets or cupboards that are dark. They are useful also in looking into cupboards and drawers.

When food scorches and spoils a good dish, do not scrape it, but add a tablespoonful of soda and enough cold water to cover the bottom of the dish, boil up and then set it back to soften.

A glassful of hot milk will help many to remedy sleeplessness, taken in sips just before retiring.

For tired and aching feet a tablespoonful of formaldehyde in a bowl of hot water, allowing the feet to soak 10 or 15 minutes, will greatly relieve them. To rub them with alcohol or vinegar, will be found soothing.

Add a cupful of cooked rice to a meat loaf. It will make the meat go much farther.

A Turkish towel wrung out of hot water and applied to the back of the neck will often relieve a sick headache.

Lubricate your meat chopper with glycerine. It will not flavor the food or become rancid.

A teaspoonful of glycerine added to grape jelly will keep the crystals from forming in it, which are so objectionable.

If a little cold water is added to butter and sugar when creaming it will cream twice as quickly.

Do no season steak until it is ready to put upon the platter.

When putting a cake into the tin, push the batter up on the sides if a layer tin, or from the center if a loaf. It will bake with a more even surface, avoiding the hump in the middle which is so unsightly.

REGISTRATION DAY KEEPS BOARDS BUSY

Ulster County Young Men Who Have Reached the Age of 21 Since June 5 Last May Soon Be Fighting For Uncle Sam.

This is registration day for those men who have attained the age of 21 years since June 5 of last year. The officials of local boards for Divisions 1 and 2 of Ulster county have been busy since 7 o'clock this morning, and expect to have plenty to do until the close of the registration places at 9 o'clock this evening.

Division 1 has three places for registration. All men from this division living below the West Shore railroad register at the armory. Samuel Stern is in charge there, assisted by Sergeant Edward Fitzgerald and John J. Costello. This district comprises wards 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 13.

Men living above the West Shore register at the office of Local Board 1 in the surrogate's office. Captain B. J. Hornbeck is in charge there, assisted by Mrs. Clara P. Van Wagoner, chief clerk of the board, and surrogate Walter N. Gill. This district includes wards 1, 2, 10, 11 and 12.

The town of Rosendale comprises a third district, and the registry place there is located at the store of Silas Roosa. Supervisor James Hasbrouck is in charge, assisted by Mr. Roosa and Silas Graham.

The exact number of men who will register in Kingston and throughout Ulster county cannot be accurately estimated inasmuch as many who would otherwise become subject to draft today have already enlisted in the various branches of the service.

Those awaiting call for the army or navy, even if they have been accepted for service, must register today; those who are actually in the service are not required to do so.

As soon as the cards are made out they will be classified alphabetically, and when the registration is finished the cards will be arranged in three divisions, one of white citizens, one of negro citizens or declarants, and one of aliens.

Each registrant will be given a registry number, and the order number will come later from Washington. It is expected that the registering here will be especially heavy this evening. The registration places will be open until 9 p. m.

The spirit shown by the men registering deserves commendation. They seemed glad of the chance of letting their names with Uncle Sam. One of the men said, "I hope the call comes quick, for I want to get a wallop at the Kaiser." The sentiments of this man was echoed by practically all of the registrants.

Origin of Hungarian Race.

The Hungarians, or Magyars, constitute a branch of the Finno-Ugric race, their nearest of kin being the Finns of Finland. The Hungarians have been settled in their present country of Hungary for more than 1,000 years. They came from the vast plains of western Siberia, their original home, toward the close of the eighth century.

NEW EMPLOYMENT OF WOMEN

British Government's Experience With Female Help Reported to Be Highly Satisfactory.

It is now incumbent upon us to see how far we can substitute the labor of women for that of men. Before the war it would doubtless have been urged that the private interest of employers had already introduced women's labor wherever this would pay. We have now learned, says the New Republic, that mere inertia is an important determinant of industrial arrangements. The British government is employing women where it formerly employed only men, and with results that are satisfactory from a financial point of view, as well as from the more essential point of view of economy of national resources.

At Woolwich arsenal, for example, only 125 out of the 10,866 persons employed in August, 1914, were women. According to the latest available reports, 25,000 out of 73,500 now employed are women. Women make up over 60 per cent of the personnel of the department of design and inspection. In private industry women have found their way into numberless employments formerly monopolized by men.

In this movement toward the employment of women the private interest of the employer has been re-enforced by patriotic considerations. Doubtless in many instances women are employed where it would be more profitable to employ men, even at scarcity wages. But in time of war such a consideration is of no determining importance.

Millions in Sunken Ships.

There are fortunes lying under the sea in the holds of torpedoed ships, and many minds are busy on the problem of recovering this wealth, according to a British exchange.

"Salvage companies are laying plans for raising both ships and cargoes on a big scale," said R. H. Davis, managing director of Siebe, Gorman & Co., submarine engineers. "Cargoes to the value of millions of pounds are awaiting recovery."

"In many cases, where ships cannot be raised, cargoes can be salvaged. We recovered £70,000 in Spanish gold coins some years ago from the Alphonso XII, 165 feet under the sea, off Point Gando, Grand Canary."

Electric Toasting.

To those who have frequently burned their fingers while turning over the toast on their electric toaster, a toaster now on the market will prove an interesting improvement.

By turning the knob near the bottom, the frame holding the slice of bread to the heater coil is thrown outward, while wire catches at the bottom trip the toast so that it slides along the frame, browned side down. On turning the knob back again, the toast is raised to a vertical position with the fresh side toward the heater. By this ingenious arrangement it is not necessary to touch the toast with the fingers until it is ready for buttering.

Baking Coarse Breads.

Bread made with any of the coarser flours needs more baking powder than white flour bread. Coarse flour yeast breads must not rise as long as ordinary white bread and they must be baked longer.

In making white bread you usually let the dough rise until it is double, put it into pans and let it rise until double the second time before baking. In the oven it should not rise more than an inch. But coarse breads should rise less in the pans, more in the oven and should bake nearly half an hour longer than the ordinary white flour—that is, for larger loaves.

Precious Fuel.

A prominent Omaha citizen was walking down the street in an uncertain way, holding a handkerchief to his face. A friend accosted him and demanded to know what the trouble might be.

"I've something in my eye," exclaimed the sufferer, "and it hurts like the dickens."

"Why don't you step into the drug store and have the clerk take it out?" snorted his friend.

"I'm afraid to," replied the man with the red eye. "It might be a piece of coal!"

This is thrift such as America never knew before.—Exchange.

Handles for Knives.

This is one way to make handles: Remove the wire from bundle handles (nearly all stores use them), fit the wooden portion onto the blades and they make excellent kitchen knives. They may be painted or stained if desired for table use. These are days of economy. One woman has found them most satisfactory knife handles for general use.

Isn't It So?

Four-year-old Charlotte was having trouble with her English, but she had entirely passed her difficulties on one point. "I see how it is now, mother," she said the other day. "Hens set and lay; and people sit and lie, don't they mother?"—Country Gentleman.

Stand Your Ground.

Remember, each one must bear his or her own burden. Not a soul is free, example of this by your own conduct. Here suggestion thus has a powerful influence. Spend three minutes per day with the children in taking vigorous breathing exercise—lifting the chest, expanding the lungs to their greatest capacity, holding the breath, exhaling to the limit and the like, all together. All will soon become fond of this little drill, as they almost feel the increase in the glow of good health.

What do you look for in a cigarette?

YOU want fragrance, of course—and smoothness—and body, so you know you're really smoking. No one tobacco can give you everything you want.

You can get these different qualities only by combining the flavors of different tobaccos.

It takes twelve different tobaccos—five Turkish and seven American—to produce the flavor that has made Mecca the favorite cigarette of over a million smokers.

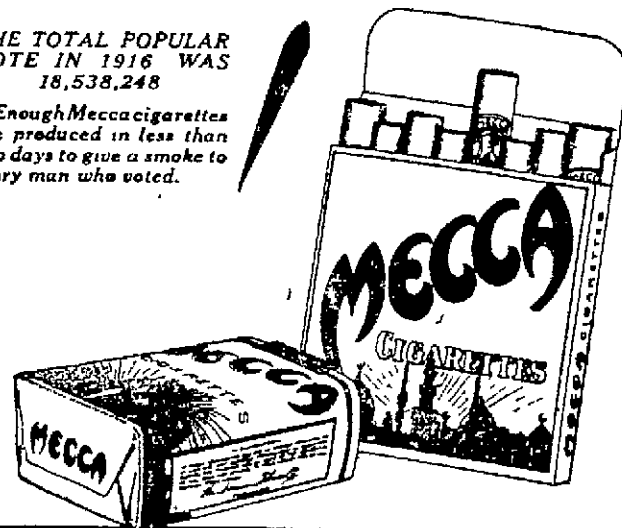

These different tobaccos are not just mixed, but are still-blended.

The twelve tobaccos are placed in the blending-still, and moist heat is passed through until all the different flavors are drawn into one, much as the full flavor of tea is drawn out by steeping. Only in this way can be obtained the true Mecca flavor.

EXAMINATIONS IN SPELLING

A competitive examination in spelling in the town of Esopus was held at Port Ewen recently to select the two best spellers to represent town at a county spelling contest to be held at the county fair at Ellenville in August. There to select the best speller in the county to represent it at the state fair at Syracuse for the championship of the state. The contest was in charge of the district superintendent, John C. Gullette, whose plan of procedure was recommended by the agricultural authorities of the state for use throughout the state.

Each district had its preliminary contest to select two spellers to the town contest on Friday, May 31, 1918.

Not all the school districts were represented. The following are those who appeared. They stood up in a row and the superintendent began on the 5,000 words prepared by the state authorities, the whole line stood for some time before any were eliminated. After a half hour attack the line became shattered in a few places but the last three or four contestants gave the superintendent the time of his life. He was due at New Paltz at 1:30 o'clock to conduct the contest there but it seemed that the 5,000 words would have to be exhausted before the finish, but finally all were eliminated. The same condition practically obtained at New Paltz which was started a little late on account of the Esopus contestants putting up so long a fight.

The following were the Esopus contestants, and each deserved commendation: Louise Polhemus, Albert E. Brownrigg, Jeanette Hines, Arthur Schaff, Gertrude Manns, Martin Munnely, Elsie M. Jacobson, Helen Wells, Helen Madsen, Ralph S. Shults, Mary Caparra, Helen Snyder, Grace Fish, Mildred Wells and Eugenia Freer.

Mildred Wells and Eugenia Freer were declared the winners and are both from district No. 7, Rifton (Rock School). Miss Anna Devine a graduate from New Paltz Normal, teacher.

At New Paltz the following entered the contest with credit: Carl Malsenholder, Beatrice Roosa, Elizabeth T. Boettiger, John Helmer, Peter Michael Lewis Woolsey, Burton Abrams, Mabel LeFever, Aurora Vasque, Lila Rouab, Blakelock Pierson and Mildred F. Harp. Carl Malsenholder and Beatrice Roosa were the successful contestants, and are from district No. 1, New Paltz under the control of the New Paltz Normal School, Dr. John C. Bliss, principal.

HELPFUL HINTS.

Save all vegetable liquors in which vegetables are cooked to add to various foods. Potato water may be used in yeast, bread, gravies and griddle cakes. As the mineral salts are largely dissolved in the water while cooking the vegetables it is economy to save every bit and use it in the food in some way. A tablespoonful of condensed milk added to a bowl of cream that has been whipped, stirring it in well, adds to its flavor and increases the amount that much.

A small flashlight is a great convenience around closets or cupboards that are dark. They are useful also in looking into cupboards and drawers.

When food scorches and spills a good dish, do not scrape it, but add a tablespoonful of soda and enough cold water to cover the bottom of the dish, boil up and then set it back to soften.

A glassful of hot milk will help many to remedy sleeplessness, taken in sips just before retiring.

For tired and aching feet a tablespoonful of formaldehyde in a bowl of hot water, allowing the feet to soak 10 or 15 minutes, will greatly relieve them. To rub them with alcohol or vinegar, will be round soothing.

Add a cupful of cooked rice to a meat loaf. It will make the meat go much farther.

A Turkish towel wrung out of hot water and applied to the back of the neck will often relieve a sick headache.

Lubricate your meat chopper with glycerine. It will not flavor the food or become rancid.

A teaspoonful of glycerine added to grape jelly will keep the crystals from forming in it, which are so objectionable.

If a little cold water is added to butter and sugar when creaming it will cream twice as quickly.

Do no season steak until it is ready to put upon the platter.

When putting a cake into the tin, push the batter up on the sides if a layer tin, or from the center if a loaf. It will bake with a more even surface, avoiding the hump in the middle which is so unsightly.

Painless Dentistry

The difference between painless and painful dentistry depends upon the carefulness and skillfulness of the operator. With good instruments, fresh medicines, local anesthetics and nitrous oxide gas a careful and skillful dentist can perform all operations painlessly, even to the extraction of teeth.

Painless methods, earnest endeavor and reasonable prices have in thirty years, made the Cady Dental Corporation the largest dental organization in New York state.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 5, 1918.

THE LOYAL FOREIGN BORN.

The President has asked all native born Americans to unite with the loyal foreign-born to make the Fourth of July mean more than it has ever meant before. This recommendation was prompted by a petition of various organizations of the foreign-born expressing their ardent desire "to preserve the ideals and sacred traditions of this, our adopted country, the United States of America; to revere its laws and inspire others to respect and obey them; to strive unceasingly to quicken the public sense of civic duty; in all ways to aid in making this country greater and better than we found it."

A fine sentiment indeed, and in regard to the attitude and patriotic service which it represents the President may well say that "there has been nothing finer than the manner in which our foreign-born fellow citizens have risen to this greatest of all national emergencies." Knowing that our drafted army represents no less than twenty-seven different languages, we need to keep in mind also that our foreign-born citizens are only in part Teutonic and to remember that even these are only in part in sympathy with our enemy and the foe of the world.

LESS TO EAT AT LESS COST.

Cut menus and reduced charges hotels are urged by the Food Administration. "The government ought to command it and enforce it," comments one disgruntled citizen just returned from a short sojourn in a cashmere hotel. He had expected the old prices to be raised, though hardly to the dizzy height he witnessed; what he did not expect was the same lavishness and waste as of old, more extravagance than ever if there was any change at all. "They served you three times as much as you ordered both in quantity and variety—oysters, soup, fish, steak, roasts, poultry, salads, vegetables, desserts, platters of it literally crowding the table. Only a hog could have eaten it and you could do no more than taste this, and that." Doubtless numerous human "hogs" demand no less, and probably hotel managers would submit that it is the only way to hold their usual patrons. But the practice is none the less reprehensible, especially in such times as these. No wonder the Food Administration has sent out the following telegram to hotels all over the country:

If the alternative dishes now offered to customers on each menu can be greatly reduced it will decrease the labor required in preparation, the stocks required in reserve and the waste arising therefrom. A variation in menu from day to day will offer in the end the same variety and procure the above benefits. During the months of June, July and August we are extremely anxious to obtain a reduction of fresh beef consumption in order to maintain the Allies' supply, and we must procure this without substitution of pork or poultry, of which, while we have enough for ordinary course of consumption, we are not in a position to provide for their additional use as substitutes for beef. We have supplies of by-products such as ox-tails, tongues, kidneys, sweetbreads, tripe and brains because only the meat cuts are being exported. The use of these could be employed, but more especially the use of seafood, vegetables and fruit. It would seem to be possible to eliminate on the menus steaks and roast beef, excepting two or three times weekly.

On every account it is desirable that the recommendation of a reduced menu at a lower price be followed. In the first place, it will save food enormously and to that extent forward the great cause which all patriots hold dear. In the second place, it will mean money in the pockets of every hotel patron while not necessarily reducing by one cent the profits of hotel proprietors. In the third place, it will check over-eating, thus increasing personal comfort and sowing fewer seeds of future disease originating in thoughtless or consciously intended gluttony. Sensible people in their own best interests, to say nothing of patriotic duty, would be only too glad to pay less and receive less to eat in hotels.

A German captain, writing in the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, rather amusingly pays an unconscious tribute to British and American destroyers in his statement that "more American transports would be sunk by U-boats if it were not so hazardous." This is obviously in answer to an accusing and outraged German public demanding to know why the U-boats within eight months had managed to sink only three American transports with a total loss of but little over two hundred lives.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS MORE MECHANICS

Good Opportunity for Men in Class 1-A to Get a Course in Mechanical Training—Voluntary Enlistment Under These Calls Closes June 7.

White men in Class 1-A, physically fit for general military service, who have completed at least a grammar school education and have had some experience along mechanical lines, are offered an opportunity to get a course of mechanical training in a government school that will fit them for worth while positions in the service, both at the front and behind the lines. This training is of great personal value, helping those who receive it to forge their way ahead, both in the army and in civil life. It is an exceptional opportunity for the ambitious man.

Men accepted under these various calls will be sent to the government schools at Syracuse University, Cornell College at Ithaca, the State College for Teachers at Albany, the Clarkson Technical Institute at Potsdam.

The period of voluntary enlistment under these calls closes June 7; after that date if enough men have not responded the balance needed will be procured by drafting.

The men selected will receive a course of instruction at government expense. Practical training in the following trades will be given: Carpenters, electricians, blacksmiths, bench wood workers, telegraph operators, metal workers, etc.

Each man accepted under these calls must provide himself with two suits of underwear, one suit of outer clothing in good condition, one stout pair of shoes, three extra pairs of socks, and two bath towels. The men will be kept in civilian clothes during the first three weeks until they can be supplied with uniforms and other clothing.

CIVIL SUIT STILL ON.

Against Philip Hasbrouck and His Bondsmen—Judge Betts is Referee.

The civil suit started over a year ago by the town of Marlborough against Philip Hasbrouck, a former supervisor from that town, and his bondsmen, William Krum, William H. Quick and Thomas Snyder, is still on. Several hearings have been held before Judge James A. Betts, as referee, to determine the amount of the shortage of the town funds handled by Hasbrouck. In county court Monday, when Hasbrouck pleaded guilty to grand larceny, and the court paroled him on condition that he make restitution, Corporation Counsel William D. Brinley, Sr., appearing for Messrs. Krum, Quick and Snyder, stated that the bondsmen ought to be protected, and that some steps ought to be taken so that the bondsmen would not have to bear the loss. Judge John G. Van Etten represents the town of Marlborough. It is understood that the bondsmen and the town officials will fight any settlement of the case that does not provide for full reimbursement upon the part of the Hasbrouck.

The Truth About Clothes.

It's fair to assume that every man who buys clothes wants good clothes; no matter what price you pay for a suit, $25 or $75, you want to get good value for your money. That's really the only business-like way to look at it.

We sell
Hart Schaffner & Marx fine clothes

We handle these goods because we know they represent greater value for the price we ask than any other clothes made. We know where to get the cheap stuff; we know who makes it, and how it's made and what it's made of; they tell us; there's no deception about it. Some of it is worth the price; but the price isn't high enough for good clothes

The price of Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes is enough to insure quality; and not too much to give big values. That's why we sell them; and if you're wise, that's why you'll buy them.

ALDERMEN PERMIT SIX CENT FARES

Adopt Amended Ordinance Eliminating That 5 Cent Limit From Trolley Road Franchise, Inserting Provision That Amount be Fixed by Public Service Commission.

Under the ruling of the courts the public service commission was unable to act upon any requests to increase trolley fares from five to six cents in cities where the franchise given the trolley road by a municipality fixed the fare at five cents. This decision led the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company to take the matter up with the city fathers at the regular monthly session Tuesday evening with the result that the city fathers eliminated the five cent fare from the franchise and inserted a provision that the trolley road shall charge such fares as may be deemed just and reasonable by the public service commission.

The only alderman to vote against the change was Alderman Powell of the Ninth ward.

President Watts presided at the session with Aldermen Preston, Roosa, Schick, Schlip, Kelly, Mann, Kirehner, Kullmann, Powell, Higgins, Connelly and Purvis present. The only absentee was Alderman Hull of the Twelfth ward.

The trolley road sent in a lengthy communication with a proposed ordinance attached. The communication set forth in detail that under existing conditions it was impossible to operate the trolley system at a five cent fare rate. That this condition was not only state but nation wide. The trolley road unless they are allowed to increase the fare would be unable to operate much longer. This condition might be partially met by abandoning part of the system or with a curtailment of service which would hardly answer.

The proposed ordinance was favored by Alderman Kullman of the Eighth ward and amended and modified the contents of the street railroads eliminating the words "five cent fare," to read that the trolley road shall charge such fare as may be deemed just and reasonable by the public service commission. A provision was also added that if at the close of the war conditions returned to normal that an application could be made to the public service commission to again make the fare five cents. Alderman Kullman moved its adoption.

The resolution was seconded by Alderman Schick of the Third ward and adopted by a vote of 11 to 1.

The present fare of five cents will remain in force, however, until the public service commission acts upon the petition of the trolley road to increase its fare.

Pincus Was Pinched.

Charles Pincus, employed by the carnival company playing at Athletic Field, was arrested early this morning by Officer Lawrence on a charge of loitering. Pincus in police court later told a wild yarn of being held up by a big "guy" who tried to get him a carnival badge and he was trailing him when arrested. He was discharged with a warning to return to the carnival and go to work. He said he joined the carnival at Newburgh and was employed as a laborer.

ISOLDI IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Jerry Isoldi, who has a tailor shop at 644 1/2 Broadway, and whose place was raided on Sunday evening, May 19, was arraigned in police court Tuesday afternoon and after a hearing was held to await the action of the grand jury by Judge Schirrick. Bail was fixed at $1,000. Jerry was represented by A. J. Cook while Chief of Police Wood appeared for The People. The raid was made by Sergeant Hanley and Officers Simpson, Shader and Welch. They testified they found Jerry and five others playing poker for money when they made the raid.

TO HOLD PARADE FOURTH OF JULY

Mayor Canfield sent in a communication to the city fathers Tuesday evening calling their attention to the fact that some arrangements should be made at the session to celebrate the Fourth of July in Kingston. He suggested that a parade be held ending at the city hall to be followed by patriotic exercises in City Hall Park that day. He also suggested that President Watts appoint the entire council as a committee to have charge of the celebration. This the presiding officer did and designated next Tuesday evening as the time for the city fathers to meet as a committee and arrange plans for the proper observance of the Fourth.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE COUNTY COURT

Abbie Green Brings Suit Against Mr. and Mrs. Terwilliger to Recover $200 Alleged to Have Been Advanced.

County court reconvened this morning at 10:30 o'clock. Judge Daniel V. McNamee, county judge of Columbia county, presiding. County Judge Jenkins was called west Monday night on business.

The case started this morning is the action brought by Abbie Green of Pine Bush, against Leander Terwilliger and his wife, Rose Terwilliger, of the town of Shawangunk, to recover $200 alleged to have been loaned and advanced. This case is an appeal from the judgment rendered in the court of Justice of the Peace Montgomery Schuyler of the town of Shawangunk.

The plaintiff claims that the $200 was advanced on condition that the defendants take care of the plaintiff the rest of her life. Defendant claims that the money was advanced as a gift.

Abbie Green, the plaintiff, is an aunt of Mrs. Terwilliger, one of the defendants. E. H. Houghtaling, with N. H. Fessenden, is representing the plaintiff; A. S. Embler is appearing for the defendant.

At 12:30 court was adjourned until 2 o'clock.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

Is it a Maltese cross or an iron cross? That is the question that is puzzling railroad men and others and has interested some of the members of the police department. A big cross has been cut in the sod around the flag pole recently raised by the West Shore employees and which will be used as a flower bed. Some of the railroad men who have seen the completed cross believe it represents the Kaiser's iron cross more than a Maltese cross for which it is intended. The matter came up for discussion in police headquarters this morning and Sergeant Phinney when he found time from a busy morning visited the cross to inspect it. As far as could be learned the sergeant is of the impression that the lines of the Maltese cross are more curved than those in the cross in the sod under the flag pole. The question will likely not be settled until an expert on crosses has had a chance to file a report.

Tuesday 12 more cases of measles were added to the rapidly growing list reported since the first of April to the health board.

The term of William Roach as commissioner of the water board expired May 31, and many are wondering who will be appointed to fill the vacancy. It is thought that Commissioner Roach will likely be reappointed.

Conductor James J. Diamond of the Colonial road is of the opinion that the board of public works should install a few drinking fountains about town for the benefit of the traveling public during the summer months. It is expected that he will shortly take the matter up with the board and urge that a few be installed.

Then He's Busy.

ROOSA FAVORS A MOUNTED OFFICER

Introduces a Resolution at City Council Session to Have Albany Avenue Patrolled—Favors Flushing Broadway.

Alderman Fred J. Roosa of the Second ward introduced a resolution at the regular monthly session of the city fathers Tuesday evening that a traffic policeman be placed on Albany avenue, and to patrol it to the city line and that signs be placed at the city lines relating to the number of miles per hour allowed in the city.

Alderman Roosa in introducing the resolution stated that Albany avenue was becoming dangerous as automobiles were using it for a speedway and he had received a number of complaints from residents asking that something be done to abate the nuisance. He said that if an officer on foot could not do much toward abating the nuisance he was in favor of having the police board place a mounted man on duty there. The resolution was referred to the police board.

Wants Streets Repaired.

Alderman Kirchner offered a resolution that the board of public works be requested to repair West Union street, between Wurts and Hone streets, and also Hone street between Spring and Abel streets. Referred to B. P. W.

Alderman Kelly introduced a resolution calling upon the board of public works to grade and to dress Yeomans street to Tompkins street and that Delaware avenue be graded and top dressed from North street to Abruzz street. Both were referred to that board.

Flush Lower Broadway.

Alderman Mann introduced a resolution that as Broadway from McEntee street to the Strand is full of sand and dirt and should be flushed at least once a week and that the board of public works give this matter attention at once. Referred to that board.

The Freeman has called attention to the need of flushing lower Broadway for several weeks past, but the board of public works have done absolutely nothing in the matter. There is no sprinkling wagon downtown this season which makes it all the more necessary that the dust on the paving brick in the business section be laid.

"No Appropriation."

Alderman Powell introduced a resolution that as the state convention of sealers of seals and measures would be held in Binghamton this month that Mr. Moyle, the city sealer, be given the privilege to attend and that his expenses be paid by the city.

Alderman Schick wanted to know if any appropriation had been made to pay for Mr. Moyle attending the convention. This led to a discussion between the aldermen and it was brought out by Alderman Powell that Mr. Moyle might not be able to attend but it would be no more than proper that he be afforded a chance if he could get away and attend.

Of course if there was no money appropriated for that purpose he can't go unless he pays his own expenses. With that understanding the resolution was adopted.

An invitation was read from the state conference of mayors calling attention to the conference to be held in Newburgh June 11, 12 and 13 and that Kingston be represented.

On motion of Alderman Schick which was adopted unanimously, the city fathers designated Mayor Canfield to represent the city with the privilege of taking with him any city officials he deemed necessary, the entire expense to be borne by the city.

To Lengthen Switch.

A petition from Watts & Tammany, the downtown coal dealers, to extend the switch in front of the coal pockets on Ferry street a distance of 34 feet was approved by the railroad committee and later by the common council.

Health Board Members.

Mayor Canfield sent in a communication nominating Dr. E. E. Norwood and Mrs. Hattie B. Michael as members of the health board to succeed themselves. Their terms had expired March 31 of this year. The council ratified the nominations.

To Rewrite City Hall.

The report of the finance, ways and means committee in favor of rewriting the city hall was adopted and the building committee was instructed to advertise for bids, the entire amount to be expended on rewriting not to exceed $100.

Other Street Repairs.

Alderman Roosa moved that the attention of the board of public works be called to curbing and flagging on O'Neil street from Willoughby avenue to Foxhall before White is laid on that street. Referred to that board.

Alderman Schick introduced a resolution that the catch basin, corner of Foxhall and Highland avenues, being stopped up with dirt, it be requested to repair West Union street, between Wurts and Hone streets, and also Hone street between Spring and Abel streets. Referred to B. P. W.

Alderman Kelly introduced a resolution to the effect that Clifton avenue between Park street and Highland avenue was in need of repairs. Referred to board of public works.

To Lay Cast Iron Pipe.

Alderman Roosa introduced a resolution that the attention of the plumbing board be called to the laying of standard cast iron pipe, corked and leaded instead of tile pipe from the sewer in the street to a building to be connected with the sewer. Referred to the plumbing board.

Alderman Schick introduced a resolution that the board of public works repair First avenue from the railroad crossing to Larch street. Referred to that board.

Other matters at session will be found elsewhere.

ULSTER PARK.

Ulster Park, June 4.—Mrs. William Horn and two children of Canada are visiting Mrs. R. J. Gardiner. Miss Charlotte House of New York city spent Decoration Day and the week end with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wells of Poughkeepsie spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Eckert.

Mr. and Mrs. LeGrand Doyle of Port Ewen spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Church.

The Children's Day exercises will be held in the Brick Church Sunday morning. A nice program has been arranged. Everyone come, Sunday, June 9, at 10 o'clock.

Miss Rachel Hoffman spent Friday with Mrs. Edwin T. Doyle.

Mrs. Eva W. Miller spent Thursday with friends in Poughkeepsie.

Dance at East Kingston.

The annual dance of the Children of Mary Sodality of St. Colman's Church of East Kingston will be held Saturday evening, June 8, at 8 o'clock, at East Kingston Hall. This affords the dance lovers an especially good opportunity to enjoy an evening of real pleasure. These young people are noted for promoting enjoyable affairs. As an added attraction Palen's orchestra will furnish music.

WHY CONNELLY AIDED THE MAYOR

Gives a Resume of Theater Ordinance
Situation and Asked Other Aldermen to Sustain Mayor's Veto—It Was a Wild Session.

The theater license fight is ended for the time being for the city fathers Tuesday evening, after one of the wildest sessions in years, voted to sustain Mayor Canfield's two vetoes of ordinances that had been introduced by Alderman Connelly, of the Eleventh ward. One of the features of the session was Alderman Connelly's brief resume of the theater situation which closed with his asking the aldermen to vote to sustain the mayor's veto and giving his reasons why he would vote in favor of the veto.

The excitement started when Mayor Canfield's veto of the last Connelly ordinance was read by City Clerk Doremus. This veto was filed in full at the time the mayor filed it. At the close of the reading, Alderman Schick, of the Third ward, moved that the former veto of the mayor's on a previous ordinance, which had been laid on the table, be taken up and acted upon. This was seconded by Alderman Connelly, and the vote was taken, every alderman voting to sustain the veto.

The Last Veto.
Alderman Schick was then given the privilege of the floor and said that before the veto was called for on the last veto he would like to say a few words. He referred to the mayor's veto and said that while the mayor saw errors in the ordinance which had been adopted, he was in favor of it. The money goes to the police pension fund and was needed as the fund could stand all the extra money it would receive. For that reason he was in favor of voting down the mayor's last veto.

Alderman Connelly Explains.

Alderman Connelly was then given the privilege of the floor and said: "I have prepared a brief resume of the conditions and questions surrounding the ordinance and veto which you have before you for action tonight. The reading of this will take but a few moments, and I promise you that many of you will be surprised at some of its contents and others of you will not be surprised, from the fact that it is exactly what you have expected and what you have had every reason to expect. You will remember that at our January meeting two resolutions were introduced; the first was intended to confirm the position of the board of aldermen as an investigating committee, whose duties are strictly prescribed by the city charter. The second resolution was for the purpose of limiting the time for which theater licenses should be granted, to three months, this condition to remain until suitable amendments to the present theater license ordinance might be enacted by this board. You will also remember that both of these ordinances were threatened with veto before their passage by the mayor on the floor of this chamber. Through your courtesy these resolutions were withdrawn. The prime object of these resolutions will become apparent to you as I proceed.

"At our February meeting an amendment to our present theater license ordinance was presented to you and unanimously passed, but was subsequently vetoed by the mayor on the technical ground of an erroneous date. At this time he had ample opportunity to make any objections to the merits of the ordinance but he failed to avail himself of this opportunity. A new ordinance was then passed with a view of meeting his technical objections and he again vetoed it; this time because the license fees did not appeal to him as being correct in amount, although it would seem that the common council should be the proper judge of this feature of the law. In making his veto the mayor offered an ordinance of his own upon this subject. At our meeting in May a third ordinance was introduced and passed; in every particular like the one suggested by the mayor with the exception of the combined theater movie and vaudeville rate, which was placed at a $150 fee, which was $50 higher than he suggested. This he has again vetoed as not being agreeable to him because of this item.

"Now comes the surprise. While we have been held up and prevented from successfully enacting measures which were for the benefit of this city and the taxpayers, two theatres have applied for a license and been granted for another year at the munificent sum of $25 per year. On April 5th the Kingston Opera House received its theatre license and on May 3rd the Auditorium received its license. No specific license has been secured by either place for moving picture shows or vaudeville, for the simple reason that the existing ordinance does not require them to do so, and while the efforts of the common council to bring this ordinance up to date and provide for reasonable license fees, their action has been negated by the mayor and the city has lost the difference between the old nominal fee of $25 and those fixed by the new ordinance. It is manifestly impossible for this common council under existing conditions to successfully enact any legislation which is for the benefit of this city. Let us hope that there may some day be a change in these conditions. It may be perhaps too much to hope that this change may take place during your lifetime or mine, but we have every reason to expect that our children or our children's children may possibly have a chance to carry out some of our ideas and ideals. We have been defeated in our efforts. May the victory be comforting to the victor. Let us leave it to the people and the taxpayers to decide between us. You as a board have performed the duties for which you were sent here in a noble and praiseworthy manner. You have shown the people that you understand why you were sent here and have appreciated your responsibility. If these efforts have been for naught and if your object has been defeated, by the ruthless use of the veto, it is no fault of yours, and I assure you that though the matter is a small one in itself, the principle is one of far-reaching magnitude. You will remember that one alderman asked the question, 'If these fees are too large why did not the proprietors of some of these houses appear and state their views?' I shall answer here, now, by saying they did not need to appear; they knew long before we did that they were perfectly safe in this matter. In a very short time there will be a new theatre in Kingston, one upon which no money or pains have been spared to make it a perfect institution of its kind. I am told that it will be controlled and managed by people of intelligence. That all its appointments will be as near perfect as possible, and above all it will be run without daily violations of the law. This theatre, I understand, is partly owned by Kingston people. Let us hope that the Kingston people will give their undivided patronage assuring it of success and popularity in this city. To my mind it would appear to be unjust to insist upon this theatre or any other theatre paying the license fee as prescribed in the ordinance in question, and allowing other theatres, particularly foreign corporations to obtain their license fee for a nominal and ridiculous sum. You will soon be confronted with the question as to whether this ordinance shall stand, notwithstanding the veto of the mayor. Under existing conditions to sustain the ordinance would be to work hardship on innocent people. Therefore, as the father of this ordinance I shall ask you all as your names are called, to vote 'No.'

Wild Times Followed.

As Alderman Connelly sat down Mayor Canfield, who was present at the session, arose to his feet and stated that he would like to reply to Alderman Connelly's remarks. Then a wild time followed. As the mayor started to speak Alderman Connelly jumped to his feet and raised a point of order. He said he had objections to an outsider replying to his remarks but he had no objection to any member of the board of aldermen doing so. He said that the mayor was out of order. "Move We Adjourn," shouted Alderman Powell jumped to his feet when the mayor sat down and said, "I move that the council vote to sustain the mayor's veto." "A motion is already before the house," President Watts informed him. It was at this point that Alderman Purvis and Schick returned to the council chamber and resumed their seats. Alderman Schick again securing the floor stated that he could not see why the ordinance should not be sustained. Preston Has His Say. "If you remember," said Alderman Preston of the First ward at this point, "I had the clerk send to other cities and secure their license rates and the averages were $100. I don't think we should be more or less. I don't see how Mr. Connelly or Alderman Connelly kept having $150 on his mind. He wanted to get $150 and it was a direct slap at the Kingston Opera House. He says the opera house is making a barrel of money. Maybe it is but with the new theatre in town it will mean fifty-fifty and the Kingston Opera House will have to scrap to get their share and I think the new theatre will down them at that. Alderman Preston then went on to state he had read Alderman Connelly's letter in the paper regarding some trouble with a theatre manager and he thought

"Another Think Coming."

It was at this point that Alderman Connelly who was in the corridor re-entered the council chamber after he had heard Alderman Preston mention his name and he said that he thought the alderman from the First ad another think coming as he had his signature on it.

"Why Alderman Connelly made the license fee $150 I don't know and he has not explained," said the mayor. He closed with the assurance that he was willing to endorse any ordinance that fixed a reasonable fee and was consistent in its provisions, but he must insist that the rates in the ordinance be consistent and not conflict as in the last Connelly ordinance.

Salemanship.

Every man has something to sell—perhaps merchandise, possibly experience, perchance work, maybe just plain bluff. Anywhere, any time, man has something to sell. We are all merchants, brokers, bankers, jobbers, hawkers, hucksters. From the clerk to the cabinet, from the buyer to the seller, from the regenerator to the retailer all men are concerned in salemanship.

Worth Knowing.

Mildew stains can be removed by rubbing a little soap over the fabric and on the top of this a little chalk and lemon juice. Place the garment in the sun for several hours and then wash as usual and the spots will vanish.

PROCLAMATION

STATE OF NEW YORK EXECUTIVE CHAMBER

WHEREAS, Chapter 625 of the Laws of 1918 provides that at any time during the pendency of the present war with Germany and its allies, the Governor may, by his proclamation, certify that public exigency requires that every able-bodied male person between the ages of eighteen and fifty years, inclusive, shall be habitually and regularly engaged in some lawful, useful and recognized business, profession, occupation, trade or employment, until the termination of such war; and

WHEREAS, The industries of this State related to and essential in the successful prosecution of the war and the production, transportation and conservation of food and food supplies, require a large supply of labor to be regularly and habitually engaged therein;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, CHARLES S. WHITMAN, Governor of the State of New York, in pursuance of the provisions of Chapter 625 of the Laws of 1918, do hereby proclaim that public exigency requires that every able-bodied male person, between the ages of eighteen and fifty years, inclusive, be habitually and regularly engaged in some lawful, useful and recognized business, profession, occupation, trade or employment, until the termination of the present war with Germany and its allies, or until the Governor by like proclamation may otherwise order.

AND I DO HEREBY NOTIFY AND WARN ALL PERSONS that any able-bodied male person between the ages of eighteen and fifty years who shall refuse to be employed for at least thirty-six hours per week, or who, after unsuccessfully seeking employment, fails to register with the Bureau of Employment of the Department of Labor or with such agency as the State Industrial Commission may designate, within thirty days after this proclamation, or who thereafter continues out of employment for any period of thirty days without having so registered, or who refuses to accept employment assigned to him by the State Industrial Commission, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of not exceeding one hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than three months, or both.

AND I DO FURTHER PROCLAIM AND REQUIRE that the State Industrial Commission shall forthwith prepare and publish such rules and regulations governing the assignment of persons to work as will assure that all persons similarly circumstanced shall, so far as possible, be treated alike and take into consideration in any such assignment to work, the age, physical condition and any other appropriate circumstances of the person so assigned.

AND I DO FURTHER PROCLAIM AND REQUIRE that the Sheriffs in the respective counties of the State, and all other officers, State or municipal, charged with the duty of enforcing the law, shall seek and continue to seek diligently the names and places of residence of able-bodied male persons within their respective jurisdictions, between the aforesaid ages, not regularly or continuously employed, as provided in this proclamation and in the aforesaid Chapter 625 of the Laws of 1918.

AND I DO FURTHER REQUIRE that all Sheriffs in their respective counties and other State or municipal officers, shall render to the State Industrial Commission such assistance and service in carrying out the provisions of the said law as may reasonably be required or requested by the said Commission.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND THE PRIVY SEAL OF THE STATE, at the Capitol in the City of Albany, this first day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighteen.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 5, 1918.

THE LOYAL FOREIGN BORN.

The President has asked all native born Americans to unite with the loyal foreign-born to make the Fourth of July mean more than it has ever meant before. This recommendation was prompted by a petition of various organizations of the foreign-born expressing their ardent desire to preserve the ideals and sacred traditions of this, our adopted country, the United States of America. To reverse its laws and inspire others to respect and obey them: To strive unceasingly to quicken the public sense of civic duty; In all ways to aid in making this country greater and better than we found it.

A fine sentiment indeed, and in regard to the attitude and patriotic service which it represents the President may well say that "there has been nothing finer than the manner in which our foreign-born fellow citizens have risen to this greatest of all national emergencies." Knowing that our drafted army represents no less than twenty-seven different languages, we need to keep in mind also that our foreign-born citizens are only in part Teutonic and to remember that even these are only in part in sympathy with our enemy and the foe of the world.

LESS TO EAT AT LESS COST.

Cut menus and reduced charges hotels are urged by the Food Administration. "The government ought to command it and enforce it," merely recommend it," comments one disgruntled citizen just returned from a short sojourn in a cashmere hotel. He had expected the old prices to be raised, though hardly to the dizzy height he witnessed; what he did not expect was the same lavishness and waste as of old, more extravagance than ever if there was any ounce of it. "They served you three times as much as you ordered both in quantity and variety—oysters, soup, fish, steak, roasts, poultry, salads, vegetables, desserts, piles of it literally crowding the table. Only a hog could have eaten it and you could do no more than taste this, and that." Doubtless numerous human "hogs" demand no less, and probably hotel managers would submit that it is the only way to hold their usual patrons. But the practice is none the less reprehensible, especially in such times as these. No wonder the Food Administration has sent out the following telegram to hotels all over the country:

If the alternative dishes now offered to customers on each menu can be greater reduced it will decrease the labor required in preparation, the waste arising therefrom. A variation in menu from day to day will offer in the end the same variety and procure the above benefits. During the months of June, July and August we are extremely anxious to obtain a reduction of fresh beef consumption in order to maintain the Allies' supply, and we must procure this without substitution of pork or poultry, of which, while we have enough for ordinary course of consumption, we are not in a position to provide for their additional use as substitutes for beef. We have supplies of by-products such as ox-tails, tongues, livers, kidneys, sweetbreads, tripe and brains because only the meat cuts are being exported. The use of these could be employed, but more especially the use of seafood, vegetables and fruit it would seem to be possible to eliminate on the menus steaks and roast beef, excepting two or three times weekly.

On every account it is desirable that the recommendation of a reduced menu at a lower price be followed. In the first place, it will save food enormously and to that extent forward the great cause which all patriots hold dear. In the second place, it will mean money in the pockets of every hotel patron while not necessarily reducing by one cent the profits of hotel proprietors. In the third place, it will check over-eating, thus increasing personal comfort and saving fewer seeds of future disease originating in thoughtless or consciously intended gluttony. Sensible people in their own best interests, to say nothing of patriotic duty, would be only too glad to pay less and receive less to eat in hotels.

A German captain, writing in the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, rather amusingly pays an unconscious tribute to British and American destroyers in his statement that "more American transports would be sunk by U-boats if it were not so hazardous." This is obviously in answer to an accusing and outraged German public demanding to know why the U-boats within eight months had managed to sink only three American transports with a total loss of but little over two hundred lives.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS MORE MECHANICS

Good Opportunity for Men in Class 1-A to Get a Course in Mechanical Training—Voluntary Enlistment Under These Calls Closes June 7.

White men in Class 1-A, physically fit for general military service, who have completed at least a grammar school education and have had some experience along mechanical lines, are offered an opportunity to get a course of mechanical training in a government school that will fit them, for worth while positions in the service, both at the front and behind the lines. This training is of great personal value, helping those who receive it to forge their way ahead, both in the army and in civil life. It is an exceptional opportunity for the ambitious man.

Men accepted under these various calls will be sent to the government schools at Syracuse University, Cornell College at Ithaca, the State College for Teachers at Albany, the Clarkson Technical Institute at Potsdam.

The period of voluntary enlistment under these calls closes June 7; after that date if enough men have not responded the balance needed will be procured by drafting.

The men selected will receive a course of instruction at government expense. Practical training in the following trades will be given: Carpenters, electricians, blacksmiths, bench wood workers, telegraph operators, metal workers, etc.

Each man accepted under these calls must provide himself with two suits of underwear, one suit of outer clothing in good condition, one stout pair of shoes, three extra pairs of socks, and two bath towels. The men will be kept in civilian clothes during the first three weeks until they can be supplied with uniforms and other clothing.

CIVIL SUIT STILL ON.

Against Philip Hasbrouck and His Bondsmen—Judge Betts is Referee.

The civil suit started over a year ago by the town of Marbletown against Philip Hasbrouck, a former supervisor from that town, and his bondsmen, William Krum, William H. Quick and Thomas Snyder, is still on. Several hearings have been held before Judge James A. Betts, as referee, to determine the amount of the shortage of the town funds handled by Hasbrouck. In county court Monday when Hasbrouck pleaded guilty to grand larceny, and the court paroled him on condition that he make restitution, Corporation Counsel William D. Blinnier, Sr., appearing for Messrs. Krum, Quick and Snyder, stated that the bondsmen ought to be protected, and that some steps ought to be taken so that the bondsmen would not have to bear the loss. Judge John G. Van Etten represents the town of Marbletown. It is understood that the bondsmen and the town officials will fight any settlement of the case that does not provide for full reimbursement upon the part of the Hasbrouck.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

Cimorelli Arraigned on Charge of Resisting an Officer.

An echo of the "Eat him up, Jack" Saurgeties dog case was heard in county court today when Joseph Cimorelli of Glasco was arraigned before Judge McNamee upon a charge of resisting an officer.

Through his attorney, Judge William D. Brinnier, Cimorelli pleaded not guilty, with 20 days in which to make any change or amendment to this plea. It is alleged that a dog belonging, or rather it did belong to Cimorelli, for the dog is dead now, bit Constable Victor Reynolds of Saurgeties. Reynolds was rounding up alleged unlicensed dogs and it is claimed that when he tried to capture Cimorelli's dog that Cimorelli sicked the dog on Reynolds, and that Reynolds was bitten several times on both hands.

A delegate will be sent to the Albany convention of the Federation on June 7th, and a special meeting will be held Monday evening, June 10, to receive his report.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 5.—Vigorous buying marked the trading at the opening of the stock market today with the steel industrials continuing the most prominent features, and those stocks making gains ranging from one to over two points. Baldwin was in urgent demand, advancing 1 1/2 to 9 1/2, and although it reacted to 9 1/2, renewed accumulation caused a rally to 9 1/2. U. S. Steel moved up one point to 10 1/2, and Midvale rose 3/4 to 5 1/2. The greatest strength in the initial trading was shown in Tobacco Products which rose 2 1/2 to 65 1/2. Clear Stores advanced 1 1/2 to 56 1/2. General Motors opened up 3 points at 125 but reacted to 123 1/2. The copper stocks reflected renewed accumulation, both Anaconda and Inspiration making fractional gains. Important banking interests were buyers of Reading which rose 1 point to 9 1/2.

A demonstration against the copper stocks, which occurred shortly after noon, was followed by heaviness in many other issues. Chino Copper, after declining to 38 1/2, rallied to 39 1/2, but yielded again to 38 1/2. Baldwin locomotive sold down to 88 1/2, a loss of nearly 3 points. New Haven showed a firmer tone, rallying from 40 1/2 to 41 1/2.

The market closed irregular today; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

SIX U. S. DIVISIONS IN COMBAT ZONE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, June 5.—Military officials today estimated that the United States now has in the actual combat zone in France at least six complete divisions in addition to the troops that are brigaded with the British and the French. There are also a large number in reserve. It was stated, so that American participation in the fighting on a serious scale is possible. In the fighting referred to in yesterday's official statements it is understood here that one independent American division was engaged.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The funeral of Mrs. Leah Johnson, who died on Saturday at her home in Shultis Corners, town of Saurgeties, was held on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. H. W. Brink of Woodstock, officiated. Interment was in Woodstock cemetery.

Mrs. Dorinda Chambers, wife of Arker C. Chambers, died in this city Tuesday, June 4, aged 46 years. She is survived by her husband and one son, Merrill Chambers, of Samsonville, and one sister, Mrs. Irene Miller of Wawarsing. The funeral will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the M. E. Church, Sampsonville. Interment in Samsonville cemetery.

Harry V. Van Aken, who fell out of a tree in the yard of his home on Washington Ave., Saurgeties last week and broke his leg, died Tuesday morning from an infection of the bone. The boy was in his 14th year and is survived by his widowed mother and one young brother. The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Mount Marion cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Byron D. Davis, who died in Kingston on Saturday, was held at her late home, Main street, Saurgeties, on Tuesday afternoon and attended by many friends. The services were conducted by the Rev. J. V. Wadsworth of the Reformed Church, assisted by the Rev. David M. Hunter of Newburgh, and formerly of Saurgeties. Interment was in Trinity cemetery.

John Farnbeck died at his home in Port Ewen Tuesday evening after a long illness. He was a resident of that village for a number of years and was highly respected by all who knew him. He was a member of the Port Ewen M. E. Church. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Ellen Lane one son, John Farnbeck, Jr., of Port Ewen, and one daughter, Mrs. John L. Jones of Kingston. The funeral will be held from the late residence Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock with interment in the Port Ewen cemetery.

The funeral of John Behan was held from his late residence, 53 Pine Grove avenue, this morning at 9 o'clock and from St. Mary's Church at 9:30 o'clock where a high mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Very Rev. John J. Hickey. The church was filled with relatives and friends who gathered to pay their last respects to the deceased. Mr. Behan was born in the town of Kingston 49 years ago and was a stone cutter by trade. Besides his wife he is survived by two daughters, Mary E. and Margaret B., and one brother, William, of this city. The bearers were John McSpirt, John McMahon, John Mahar and Charles Daley. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot, St. Mary's cemetery, where a short service was conducted by Dean Hickey. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Grogan and Scherer.

Many friends in the city, and others who have had close relations in active professional and social circles with one of Kingston's most promising young men, will be deeply grieved to learn of the death of Joseph Jansen Hasbrouck of this city, which will live in cracks and crevices in poultry houses is to clean the house. All litter, nest material and droppings should be removed. Then spray or paint thoroughly the entire surface of the house and literally flood all cracks and inside of nests with a 5 per cent spray and do the work thoroughly.

Dirty Fresh Eggs.
A fresh egg that has contracted dirt in any form can never be made to appear quite so attractive as one laid in a clean nest by a clean hen.

Avoid Diseased Fowls.
There are those who never breed a fowl that has once been subjected to disease, particularly in a malignant form.

Variety of Feeds.
Variety is not only the spice of life, but in poultry feeds and feeding it is one element that stands for success.

Chariots in Ancient Warfare.
The Egyptian and Roman chariots served not only to bring the soldiers to a desired point and to overwhelm advancing masses of infantry, but also as a bulwark, a sort of improvised fortress behind which marksmen sheltered themselves in the thick of the fight. The curved front of the carriage body served as a shield even though it was at least nineteen centuries behind its modern cousin, the iron-plated, self-propelled motor tank.

Back Home With Abe

By C. B. LEWIS

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

In the country, when a young man and a young woman are courting, it is referred to as "settin' up together."

Abe Wright and Polly Andrews had "set up" a hundred nights in her father's farmhouse kitchen before they became engaged. The son or daughter of a farmer is not as apt to rush into love and matrimony as a young man dwelling in a town. There may not be as much formality between them, but they look upon matrimony more seriously.

There are a score of object lessons daily before their eyes. A farmer, to succeed, must be ever rising early and toiling late. His horses or his oxen get more rest than he does. He can know very little of the comforts and pleasures of life and see to his acres as well.

And if he works long hours his wife works longer ones. Her work must be done on time as well as his. She may live within five miles of a village and yet not enter it once a year. He may be a subscriber to a county paper, and yet she cannot spare the time to read its contents.

The two young folks saw and experienced all this and much more; and yet the instincts and sentiments of humanity brought them together. They would marry, as thousands of others in their situation had done, and hope that their future might work out better.

Miss Polly said "yes" to the proposal of marriage, but the very next day she admitted to her mother that sometimes she thought she loved Abe and sometimes she thought she didn't. She had never been ten miles away from home. The only men she had ever come in contact with had been of her class, or agents or peddlers. She knew there was a big world outside of hers, but she had never peeped at it. She had a bit of romance about her, and sometimes she longed to see the brave men and fair women that the books told her about.

Abe Wright was going to marry and acquire a farm of his own. Therefore, he whistled as he went about his work. He had heard that a girl sometimes went back on her pledge, but he was as sure of Polly Andrews as he was of the sun.

One day the girl ran over to Farmer Waldron's on an errand. She found a strange young man there, who was introduced to her as Brian Montgomery. Even if he hadn't been good-looking and had taken ways with him, his name would have won her favor.

How did the name of Abe Wright compare with that of Brian Montgomery?

The one belonged to the drudger of the soil—the other to a gentleman of the world, who had good filling in his teeth—who wore creases in his trousers—who displayed paper collars; and socks at ten cents a pair were not for him. Mr. Brian Montgomery, from New York, Chicago and Boston, as he announced, must surely be one of those brave and gallant men she had read and dreamed of.

When Miss Polly had departed for home, Mrs. Waldron said to the cousin: "Now, Brian, you must not set out to turn that girl's head. She is engaged to a steady young farmer, and you mustn't be the cause of a quarrel between them."

"Oh, it will be a mild—a very mild flirtation," he laughed in reply. "How can I put in a month here and not flirt with the only girl for a mile around?"

And a day or two later the young man came over to the house of Farmer Andrews and introduced himself and made himself very much at home.

"Do you like him, mother?" somewhat anxiously queried Polly, after their caller had departed.

"Isn't he what they call fresh?" was asked in reply.

"Why, how can you say that? It is simply that he has self-confidence."

"One would think that he had known you for a year."

"But he was trying to put us at our ease."

"Well, I dunno how Abe will take it."

"But I don't see where he can find any fault? He might talk with a dozen girls and I shouldn't raise a row with him about it."

Abe heard that there was a young man visiting the Waldrons, but he hadn't seen him. Neither had he learned that the said young man was making himself very much at home at the Andrews farmhouse. The mother had said to Polly:

"I don't believe that Abe knows that Mr. Montgomery is hanging around here, and you'd better mention it."

"Why do you call it 'hanging around'?" was demanded.

"Because it looks like it to me. Mrs. Waldron must have told him you were engaged to Abe."

"Mr. Montgomery comes here to help pass the time away. He is an interesting talker, and has traveled all over the world, and I am glad to listen to him. Yes, I suppose he knows that I am engaged, and that will prevent him from talking any nonsense to me."

"But if you don't tell Abe he'll think there is something wrong about it."

"If I've got to be afraid of Abe Wright I'll break the engagement."

Two days later Abe was working in a field along the highway, when a sewing machine agent that he had known for a year or two halted his outfit and came to the fence and said:

"Abe, it's not my play to meddle with what does not concern me, but if you would take a hint from me and not get mad I would give it to you."

"Oh, I won't get mad," was the reply.

"You know how news flies around here in the country?"

"Gosh, yes!"

"Well, I've heard that you and Polly Andrews were engaged."

"Yes, we are."

"And I've heard that a young fellow—a cousin to Waldron—is there a-visiting."

"Yes."

"Is he a-visiting the Waldrons or the Andrews? It seems that he divides his time between the two houses. Better look out, Abe. The fellow don't look good to me." And with that he drove on and Abe looked after him in a dazed way and whispered:

"He means that the fellow is trying to win Polly away from me. I thought she had been acting rather queer of late. I must look into this thing a bit."

When he made his appearance that evening, Polly had a feeling that he had heard things, and intended to "lay the law down to her." This feeling had quickly bred another—that of defiance—and she was ready for the quarrel. To her surprise, no quarrel came. Abe was a bit more serious than usual, but he was clear of rancor, as he asked:

"Is that young man Montgomery a nice fellow?"

"Very nice," was the reply.

"He has been around the world a good bit, I suppose?"

"He has been everywhere, and it's very interesting to hear him talk of what he has seen."

"Yes, it must be."

"He has been in London and Paris, Abe. He was a captain in a Canadian regiment in the first of the war. He has killed over a dozen Germans. He has helped lynch a murderer. He is going to be elected to congress next year."

"Y-e-s," drawled Abe.

"And he can sing and dance and play the piano," continued the foolish girl. "Yes, and he can play golf and cricket and ride horseback. And he owns an auto that cost five thousand dollars. And after he is elected to congress we are to live in Washington."

In her excitement and enthusiasm she had said "We." Her chatter over it was intense for a moment, and then relief came as she saw that Abe hadn't noticed it. Hadn't he, though? But there were no criticisms—no quarreling—the same kindly "Good-night," as Abe left for home.

"There will be an elopement," he said to himself as he walked along. Half an hour later, as he lay in bed staring at the darkness, he added: "That is, there will be an attempted elopement."

STREET SWEEPER
HIT BY AN AUTO

Alfred Smith of No. 25 Second ave- nue, a street sweeper in the employ of the board of public works, was knocked down by a Ford car driven by Andrew Loucks of Grand Gorge, on Broadway, near Chester street, on Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock. The injured man was conveyed by Mr. Loucks to police headquarters at the request of Officer Dempsey, where he was attended by Dr. John F. Larkin, and later removed to his home. No bones were found broken but he was badly shaken up and bruised about the body.

Artificial Indigo.
Chemists discovered by research years ago the process of making arti- ficial indigo, but it was only when a thermometer broke in the solution that they found out now to make the indigo cheap enough to be commercially val- uable. The mercury so increased the yield of a certain acid that the process was cheapened sufficiently to make arti- ficial indigo less expensive than nat- ural indigo.

SLUGGERS FOR SOLDIER BOYS IN FRANCE

The Y. M. C. A. has mobilized 144,000 baseball bats for use of the Ameri- can soldiers overseas. This spring the back yards behind the fighting front will resound to crack of bats and cries of "at a boy" when "Sammy" is not otherwise occupied. Maybe the bats will be used in a pinch to drive the Ger- mans home.

M'GRAW WON MANY PENNANTS

Giants Defeat Connie Mack's Athlet- ics in 1905 for Championship of the World.

John J. McGraw, the Little Napoleon of baseball, has won six pennants and one world's cham- pionship with the New York Giants. Under the leader- ship of McGraw, the Giants defeat- ed Connie Mack's Philadelphia Ath- letics for the base- ball gonfalon in 1905. McGraw won his first Na- tional league pen- nant with the Giants in 1904. There was no world's cham- pionship that year. McGraw's managerial record is in a class by itself. He as- sumed command of the Giants in 1903, finishing second; he won the National league pennant in 1904-05, finished second to Chicago in 1906, fourth in 1907, second in 1908, third in 1909, second in 1910, first in 1911, 1912 and 1913; second in 1914, eighth in 1915, fourth in 1916 and first in 1917. McGraw was third baseman in his play- ing days.

BASEBALL STORIES

Clarence Rowland is using two and three pitchers in a game, just as he did last year.

Tom Clarke, former Cincinnati catcher, has been purchased by the Yankees. Tom was a holdout.

George Stallings is hard up for twirl- ers and is trying out Canavan of Worcester and Hearne of Toronto.

Justin Fitzgerald, the Phillies' out- fielder, has escaped army service be- cause of a bad leg and a weak heart.

Fritz Maisel is playing with new enthusiasm now that he is slated to cover third base regularly for the Browns.

Jack Doyle of Chicago, former first baseman for the New York Giants, has been appointed an umpire in the Western league.

Members of the army and navy will be admitted free to one game in each series played at the Philadelphia American park.

Ball games in St. Paul and Minne- apolis may be started as late as five o'clock to take advantage of the day- light saving plan.

Percy Haughton, president of the Braves, thinks that three wide ones should mean a base on balls in order to increase batting.

Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, will enlist in the navy as soon as he can get permission from his draft board to make the change.

Clark Griffith does not hesitate to say he expects his team

ALDERMEN PERMIT SIX CENT FARES

Adopt Amended Ordinance Eliminating That 5 Cent Limit From Trolley Road Franchise, Inserting Provision That Amount be Fixed by Public Service Commission.

Under the ruling of the courts the public service commission was unable to set upon any requests to increase trolley fares from five to six cents in cities where the franchise gives the trolley road by a municipality fixed the fare at five cents. This decision led the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company to take the matter up with the city fathers at the regular monthly session Tuesday evening with the result that the city fathers eliminated the five cent fare from the franchise and inserted a provision that the trolley road shall charge such fares as may be deemed just and reasonable by the public service commission.

The only alderman to vote against the change was Alderman Powell of the Ninth ward.

President Watts presided at the session with Aldermen Preston, Roosa, Schick, Schlip, Kelly, Mann, Kirchner, Kullmann, Powell, Higgins, Connolly and Purvis present. The only absentee was Alderman Hull of the Twelfth ward.

The trolley road sent in a lengthy communication with a proposed ordinance attached. The communication set forth in detail that under existing conditions it was impossible to operate the trolley system at a five cent fare rate. That this condition was not only state but nation wide. The trolley road unless they are allowed to increase the fare would be unable to operate much longer. This condition might be partially met by abandoning part of the system or with a curtailment of service which would hardly answer.

The proposed ordinance was fathered by Alderman Kullman of the Eighth ward and amended and modified the contents of the street railroad franchise to the words: "five cent fare" to read that the trolley road shall charge such fare as may be deemed just and reasonable by the public service commission. A provision was also added that if at the close of the war conditions returned to normal that an application could be made to the public service commission to again make the fare five cents. Alderman Kullman moved its adoption.

The resolution was seconded by Alderman Schick of the Third ward and adopted by a vote of 11 to 1.

The present fare of five cents will remain in force, however, until the public service commission acts upon the petition of the trolley road to increase its fare.

Pincus Was Pinched.
Charles Pincus, employed by the carnival company playing at Athletic Field, was arrested early this morning by Officer Lawrence on a charge of loitering. Pincus in police court told a wild yarn of being held up by a big "guy" who tried to get him a big "guy" and he was charged with a warrant to return to the carnival and go to work. He said he joined the carnival at Newburgh and was employed as a laborer.

ISOLDI IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Jerry Isoldi, who has a tailor shop at 644½ Broadway, and whose place was raided on Sunday evening, May 19, was arraigned in police court Tuesday afternoon and after a hearing was held to await the action of the grand jury by Judge Schrick. Bail was fixed at $1,000. Jerry was represented by A. J. Cook while Chief of Police Wood appeared for The People. The raid was made by Sergeant Hanley and Officers Simpson, Shadler and Welch. They testified they found Jerry and five others playing poker for money when they made the raid.

TO HOLD PARADE FOURTH OF JULY

Mayor Canfield sent in a communication to the city fathers Tuesday evening calling their attention to the fact that some arrangements should be made at the session to celebrate the Fourth of July in Kingston. He suggested that a parade be held ending at the city hall to be followed by patriotic exercises in City Hall Park that day. He also suggested that President Watts appoint the entire council as a committee to have charge of the celebration. This the presiding officer did and designated next Tuesday evening as the time for the city fathers to meet as a committee and arrange plans for the proper observance of the Fourth.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE COUNTY COURT

Abbie Green Brings Suit Against Mr. and Mrs. Terwilliger to Recover $200 Alleged to Have Been Advanced.

County court reconvened this morning at 10:30 o'clock. Judge Daniel V. McNamee, county judge of Columbia county, presiding. County Judge Jenkins was called west Monday night on business.

The case started this morning is the action brought by Abbie Green of Pine Bush, against Leander Terwilliger and his wife, Rose Terwilliger, of the town of Shawangunk, to recover $200 alleged to have been loaned and advanced. This case is an appeal from the judgment rendered in the court of Justice of the Peace Montgomery Schuyler of the town of Shawangunk.

The plaintiff claims that the $200 was advanced on condition that the defendants take care of the plaintiff the rest of her life. Defendant claims that the money was advanced as a gift.

Abbie Green, the plaintiff, is an aunt of Mrs. Terwilliger, one of the defendants. E. H. Houghtaling, with N. H. Fessenden, is representing the plaintiff. A. S. Embler is appearing for the defendant.

At 12:30 court was adjourned until 2 o'clock.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

Is it a Maltese cross or an iron cross? That is the question that is puzzling railroad men and others and has interested some of the members of the police department. A big cross has been cut in the sod around the flag pole recently raised by the West Shore employees and which will be used as a flower bed. Some of the railroad men who have seen the completed cross believe it represents the Kaiser's iron cross more than a Maltese cross for which it is intended. The matter came up for discussion in police headquarters this morning and Sergeant Phinney when he found time from a busy morning visited the cross to inspect it. As far as could be learned the sergeant is of the impression that the lines of the Maltese cross are more curved than those in the cross in the sod under the flag pole. The question will likely not be settled until an expert on crosses has had a chance to file a report.

Tuesday 12 more cases of measles were added to the rapidly growing list reported since the first of April to the health board.

The term of William Roach as commissioner of the water board expired May 31, and many are wondering who will be appointed to fill the vacancy. It is thought that Commissioner Roach will likely be reappointed.

Conductor James J. Diamond of the Colonial road is of the opinion that the board of public works should install a few drinking fountains about town for the benefit of the traveling public during the summer months. It is expected that he will shortly take the matter up with the board and urge that a few be installed.

HIGH HONORS WON BY ULSTER GRAD

Fred H. Voss, who graduated from Ulster Academy in 1911 as president of his class, has just received the degree of M. D. from the Long Island College Hospital Medical School. Dr. Voss also won honors by capturing two of the four prizes offered. He was awarded the Mitchell prize, of a set of surgical instruments, for being the most proficient in all departments of medicine, and was also awarded the Dudley gold medal for the best clinical report of a medical case in the hospital.

Dr. Voss graduated with honor from Ulster Academy in 1911. He taught school for two years and then entered the medical college. He was elected president of his class that year and managed to be elected each year for the four years while there. Not only was he elected president of the senior class, but also president of the Student's Council, representing some six hundred students. When the college hospital was out short of doctors by the call for army service, Dr. Voss was selected by the faculty to act as interne where he spent ten weeks in the medical wards.

Dr. Voss is a member of the enlisted Medical Reserve Corps and will do army duty as a first lieutenant in the medical corps when called for active service.

MOTHERS' DAY LETTERS FROM OUR BOYS "OVER THERE"

VOGEL PRAISES MCA ARMY IN FRANCE MOSTLY SULLIVANS

A City in France, May 12, 1918.
My dear Parents:

No doubt you have heard about this day as we understand it is a real holiday for the parents and their sons who are in a great country trying to bring about liberty for all. The governor issued an order for all boys to write to their parents on this great day, for it makes the fellows bring their thoughts back to where they had never ought to leave. This day makes us think that we still have that warm feeling for our parents who are a great distance from us. There is not a day passes but what we think of the dearest ones we left behind, but we have come on a great errand and determined to see it through; that is the spirit in every American boy and no doubt that great feeling is at home. We are following the right path for that great organization called the Y. They have huts scattered throughout France. Our great men have offered their services to the Y so they can keep in touch with boys giving all kinds of lectures, have services every Sunday evening. The folks at home don't realize that the Y does for us. We surely would not know what we would do without it. I will give you a little idea what they do toward entertaining the boys. The forepart of the week we were entertained by the Herring Sisters (five of them) giving a very fine musical which we thoroughly enjoyed, also, and the honor of hearing Mr. George Vincent, of the Rockefeller foundation, giving a very interesting talk on this great conflict. He was a great speaker, pointing out everything clearly and we were pleased to hear a man of his standing come over and give the boys advice. The next evening a Professor Cutler, of the Wisconsin University, who by the way happened to be connected with the Y. He spoke of the Life of Joan of Arc, one of the greatest women of her time, who brought France her liberty. The next evening we had our old friend Billie Revere, a secretary of our Y. When there is nothing doing Bill, as we call him, can get up and make a speech at any time. This night he spoke of Channing's speech, and gave us a splendid idea of it. I wish I could write it. If it was not for the Y what would we do? Taking everything into consideration, we can buy fruit, cakes, candies, tobacco, and in fact everything that we need, almost as cheap as we can buy it at home. The Y. Red Cross, and the K. of C., when it really gets organized, are great helpers, advisers and work, so the folks need not think that we are not taken care of.

Folks, this Mother's Day, we are real reminder home. We are here doing our bit and there is absolutely no question of the outcome of this great conflict; the Huns must and will be beaten. I have had but one letter from Brother Albert since his arrival over here, but hope to hear from him again very shortly. Well, folks, I don't know of any other news only that I am following the right path, which I promised you I would do when I left home, and living up to my word, so please don't worry.

As I have nothing else of interest to write at this sitting, only hoping that in the near future we can all assemble in that renowned homestead on Abeel street, and tell of our experiences while over there, which will be interesting. Hoping this letter finds everyone at home enjoying good health, for I can say that of myself for I was never better. I will end now with love and happiness to all. I am your loving son.

AND HERE'S ONE LETTER FOR FATHER

Hickey of the Motor Mechanics Wants Something to Read "But Don't Send Anything Expensive."

On Active Service with the American Expeditionary Force.

May 7, 1918.

Dear Dad:—Just a few lines to let you know that I am in splendid health; and hope that this letter finds you the same. Also, glad to hear that you are able to get around now. We are having some nasty weather here. It rains day in and day out. Do not worry about my safety as I am perfectly safe, and do not know a thing about what is going on at the front, only what we read in the daily papers. I am working in a automobile shop, and I am progressing fine. How is my brother Mike making out at work? It is certainly a beautiful country, only the weather is crazy. The only thing that I am sorry for is that I am not with the Kingston boys. But that's the same I have made some fine friends. Write as often as possible as I like to read mail from home. Tell Aunt May I was asking for her. You ought to know how it is here. I only get a chance to write every now and then, but as yet, I did not receive them. Do not send anything that is expensive unless I ask for it. Send me the paper or a magazine so as I can read. Answer this letter as soon as possible as I am waiting anxiously to hear from you. Love and luck to and brother Mike.

Your loving son,

JOHN HICKEY.

Co. 19, 4th Battalion, 1st Regiment Motor Mechanics S. C., American Expeditionary Force Air Service, France.

Corporal James J. Sullivan, Working Thick at Cooties in the Trenches and He's Not the One Who Was Wounded.

Mother's Day, May 12, 1918.
On Active Service With the American Expeditionary Force, American Force, France.

My Dear Mother:

Today is the day that all mothers come into their own; it has been set aside for them, and here among the American men it is considered as glorious and as great as the day when we'll plant Old Glory on top of the imperial palace at Berlin, and have Kaiser Bill's hat hanging to a pork sausage in the Rhine. It's a wonderful idea and has been backed and ardently advertised by all officers from General Jack J. to our own looney's. God bless them for that much even if they do bawl us out now and then.

So my own mother, I send you all the love one lad can who has a mother who can never be adored enough.

I received your letter of April 14, 1918. Lord no, I am still on God's green earth, and expect to stick for a while longer. Now if you're going to be looking and hunting me out in the casualty list why I am going to try and convince you that I am not the one. J. J. Sullivan, 469 Aero. No. 26250. A. E. F., Air Service, and of course Hank J. and myself J. J. Sullivan are as thick as the sweet little cooties in the trenches over here. So let your mind be at ease, as the officers tell us after standing about fourteen hours at a time.

You know mother, we all have serial numbers which make us a marked man. Whether living or dead during our career in the U. S. army the number is more important than the name; they make us wear what we call dog tags; they are like J. J. Sullivan, 469 Aero. No. 26250. A. E. F., Air Service, and there is two of them. We wear them on a stout cord around the neck all ways and are under severe punishment if caught without them. They are made of aluminum and cannot rust. So if you keep hunting for my name among the heroes it ought to read like J. J. Sullivan, Air Service, No. 26250. Hank's No. 26250. But for the love of good St. Patrick don't worry; we're living the life of Reilly, or nearly so as possible; seeing as how we are about 4,000 miles from God's country. But, however, we manage after a fashion to get along.

I am glad my letters cause some joy to someone. Give my regards to all the girls and thank Mrs. Mac for us. We have received all packages that you sent. Now we would like to have more Camels and a couple boxes of cigars. I am enclosing a list which you must show to the postmaster over there.

Now I hope there's a fair contact with me, but I reckon it's just a bit of good luck that my letters hit on the right time to their folks.

So N. John is going away. Well, you can't expect a man to stay in a dry town can you? That takes the joy out of life; but the peaceful time among the Sullivan's is a peace very good. Peace is the wish of every man, but its got to be the right kind, and will make the whole world happy. It won't take us long, so don't worry, and leave all the work and fretting to us.

Well, mother, we write as much as we can, but there are times when it's a military necessity for us not to write home or anywhere else; these times are seldom. We have just been through one of these, and that's why you did not hear from me of late.

Well, mother, you ought to be receiving our allotments again; also the government widows' allotment; Hank and I straightened them out more than a month ago; it ought to be some $60 a month.

Well, mother, I think I will close now; give our honest regards to all friends and neighbors and with all possible love to you and all.

We are your loving sons, Hank and Jim.

Require Cash For Coal.

The local retail coal dealers have received notice from the wholesale dealers that they will have to pay for the coal as soon as it is received. In order to do this the retail dealers will ask their customers to pay for the coal as soon as the order is filled. This means that those ordering their winter's supply, or the coal for daily use, will be requested to pay for it when delivered. This is done as the wholesale dealers having eliminated the thirty days for cash the retailers will have to do the same.

"Bud" Culliton Making Good.

"Bud" Culliton, former star twirler for Ulster Academy, is making good with Norfolk. The Virginia Pilot and the Norfolk Landmark in reporting the opening game of the season states that Culliton's work on the mound for Norfolk was a sensation and portrayed his ability as a twirler. He struck out ten men and his twirling for Norfolk is destined to be the stellar work of the aggregation during the season. Norfolk won the game by a score of 3 to 2.

Good Nature's Limitations.

"A good-natured man," said Uncle Eben, "ain't allus to be relied on to take an interest in other folks' troubles. If he was he couldn't keep being good-natured."

NOT TOO BUSY TO THINK OF MOTHER

Corporal Henry Sullivan, Working 20 Hours a Day to Prepare to Wind Up the Watch on the Rhine.

On Active Service With the American Expeditionary Force, May 12, 1918.

Dear Mother and All:

Just a few lines to let you know all is well and that we received your last box and was sure pleased to get it. Everything is going along smooth, we are both well and in fine spirit and not worried in the least, so don't you worry. We of course are getting plenty to do but we are glad and happy to do all in our power. I've worked like the dickens lately even up to 20 hours a day but I'd work until I dropped if necessary, but I'm no different than any of the boys, there are all here to do there bit and believe me the Huns will find out when the U. S. Aviation starts in to wind up the watch on the Rhine just what we were sent here for; all we can do just now is work and wait but when the big day comes we'll strike and strike hard and the damned Huns are done for we'll take it on the run for the United States and "Home Sweet Home." Well, mother, I can't think of much more to say just now, everything is lovely so keep up your courage and thereby do your bit for if you worry and lose heart why of course I'll have to worry and that won't do us a bit of good. We'll both be home for Christmas sure, if not before.

So just watch and wait. By the old garden gate. Till our ship comes sailing home. When the war is won. Our work will be done. Our victory won. Then to Home Sweet Home. We'll come on the run.

This may sound rather silly for me but I can't help it. I write anything that comes into my head. I don't often get time to think and then I do I can't think. Well as I said before all's well. Jim sends his love and I send mine; both well and feeling fine. Good luck and love to all. Your son,

CORPORAL HENRY J. SULLIVAN,

469th Aero Con. Squadron, Air Service, American E. F.

P. S.—Don't worry about Jim now for he's very much alive; there is many Sullivans over here, there is five in the 469th, our outfit, my number is 26250.

SAW KAISER'S COMFORT KIT

Gardner Writes of Red Cross Work For the New Men on Their Way to Camp—Sleeping in a Baggage Rack.

William G. Gardner of Ulster Park, Ulster Academy '14, Pratt Institute '17, who enlisted from Pittsfield, Mass., where he was employed by the General Electric Co., in the Engineers, writes of his new experiences as follows:

Camp A. A. Humphreys, Acetintek, Virginia, May 26, 1918.

Dear Mother:—

We left Fort Slocum yesterday about 10 a. m. and reached camp about 10 this morning. They took us from Fort Slocum to the Pennsylvania railroad depot in Jersey City by boat. The Red Cross gave us coffee and sandwiches in Jersey City at noon time and we rode from there to Newark where we changed cars. There were 155 of us and we had two cars for ourselves.

We came from Newark to Washington on a fast express and in Washington station our cars were hooked on a Richmond and Washington railroad train. We got out of the cars in Washington yards and the Red Cross served us coffee and sandwiches.

The train reached Acetintek, which is about 20 miles south of Washington, at 9 o'clock and left our two cars on the siding. As the camp is five miles from the station, we had to sleep in the cars.

Everybody was all cramped up in the seats so we did not get much rest from our sleep. One fellow actually went to sleep in one of the suit case racks.

A truck came and got our luggage this morning and then we had to hike five miles to the camp. It is as hot here now as it ever gets in New York state and, believe me, we were all in when we hit the camp. After getting breakfast and taking a shower bath we felt like new men.

We sleep on cots which are in the barracks and everyone has two blankets which he uses and must take care of.

Camp Humphreys is a new camp and when completed will be one of the largest training camps in the country. At present it is entirely for engineers and I will be here for three or four days till I get my equipment.

I will be glad when I get to Washington barracks so that I can get some mail.

There are a lot of drafted men here and they are making the dirty fly with picks and shovels.

I took out the insurance for $10,000 and it costs $6.50 a month.

Don't worry about me because I am sure of good treatment whether well or sick.

The officers are very strict but it is best for everybody concerned.

Last Sunday they had a parade

McANDREWS BROTHERS IN SERVICE IN FRANCE

PRIVATE JAMES S. McANDREWS.

Co. F, 306th Infantry, Camp Union, probably in France.

PRIVATE JACK McANDREWS.

105th Machine Gun Co., Camp Wadsworth, now probably overseas.

Privates Jack McAndrews, Co. B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion at Camp Stuart, Va., now probably in France, and Private James S. McAndrews, Co. F, 306th Infantry, now doing his bit somewhere in France, are brothers, living when in Kingston at 50 North Street. Private Jack went away with Company M last summer and Private Jim left town February 26th with the National Army conscripts. They are sons of James P. McAndrews.

In Pittsfield and in the parade was a hearse driven by a real undertaker containing a real black coffin and followed by a bunch of grave-diggers. The hearse was labelled, "The Kaiser's Comfort Kit."

With love to all, I am,

Your loving son,

PRIVATE WILLIAM G.

WHEN THE ROOKIES COME INTO CAMP

The Other Side of the Story as Told by an Officer Who Received a Company of Drafted Men at 3 O'clock in the Morning.

The Freeman has printed a number of stories of the experiences of new men in camps as viewed by them. All have been cheerful and have emphasized the warmth of their reception and the evident care taken to make them as comfortable as possible. How much this cost those who received them, the labor and thought required and how their officers view the new men has never been written or described in detail as it is in the following letter from an experienced officer in one of the southern camps assigned to receive, organize and command a company of new men:

I enjoy The Freeman very much. It is immense to hear about that town. It sort of keeps one up on the activities of the average American city. I am glad to hear about the bridge affair although I feel it could have been done a long time ago. How you are going to get steel for it is a mystery. The Skilipot is safe as yet?

I was transferred to this camp with other machine gun officers. The companies here are green men. My first company to which I was attached did not know how to salute. They were the greenest men I have ever seen. I was there about five days, when I was handed an order to duty as commanding officer of a recruit company and shown a map of my location in camp and told to report to the personnel officer for 11 disciplined men. The eleven "disciplined men" were just eleven disciplined men who never had a ray of experience with paper work, just of course knew there was such and such a thing.

I took them up to the place. It had a mess shack, a latrine and a shower bath house. I looked at the order. It read: "You will be given 24 hours to get the men in camp. They will have their local board papers, you will index these papers for the surgeons' and personnel officers' records, and establish a company unit."

So I measured off the ground from mess shack to latrine, found that 34 pyramidal tents would just fit in and violate the sanitary rule by two feet (of 50 feet from latrine), so they are 48 feet from latrine), and drew the tents.

This was Friday. We had the tents drawn up by Saturday noon, placed a requisition for cots, 300; blankets, 512; five days' rations, 1,336 rations; 7 set up the large field range, rehearsed the eleven men in just what they were to do, gave them Saturday night until reveille off. Got to bed 12 o'clock Saturday night. Sunday drew the cots and set them up in tents, washed down the mess shack, set up the field range, received the rations, received and counted the blankets and was nearly driven insane by the failure up to 5:30 of a requisition for mess kits, knife, fork, spoon and cup to show up. Started hell rolling at division headquarters. Answered 1,000,000 foot questions of second lieutenants detailed to five other companies for same work and who came over with their detail of eleven men to look at what we were doing. They had in the meantime all been detailed and the other second lieutenant to help them.

7 o'clock had a last rehearsal and at 7:30 a second lieutenant came to me, a Lithuanian, who has done nothing but as an interpreter. Fine thing when one needs a forceful helper and one without an accent. At 8 o'clock the ordnance department delivered 1,600 mess kits to me. One thousand six hundred mess kits were to come in between 7:30 and 9:30 Sunday evening. I laughed and took them all. No lights had been delivered for my mess hall. I was told to have a meal ready. I had to use the mess hall to issue the blankets in and make a list of names to check the local board's papers by. Stopped a motor cycle car of the medical department, rushed down to the amazed Q. M. and got the lights. Went down to the station at 9 o'clock. The 7 o'clock outfit was just arriving. They moved out. Told the five men I had with me to get some sleep and showed them how by lying down on the sand. It was 11 o'clock. I did not go to sleep. They did. At 3 o'clock the train pulled in. The ambulance with the medical men had arrived about 15 minutes before, so had the personnel officer. It was a bright moon light night, but dusty. The personnel officer came to me and reported: "These are your men."

There were 750 miles from New York, two days, almost in the train, half starved, morale lower than the bottom of the ocean. Americans, Irish, Russians, Jews, Italians, New York fresh guys, plain New Yorkers. My five disciplined men whom I had with me marched them into a column of squads.

When I stood out in front of that 256 men it looked like 2,056. A Q. M. truck rolled up in front of the head of the column and they threw their grips on it. It pulled away. I told them again where they lived and not to leave the ranks. Then I gave them the "forward march" and they had heard the voice of the army and came into the ranks of the most democratic institution in the world.

I started to hum "Over There." The front rank took it up. They all took it up. When they stopped I asked one of them if they knew "Good-bye Broadway: Hello France." They did. Then "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and as we came close to our street "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." They knew them all. I'm afraid I blew my nose a hell of a lot.

Our meal was cooking smelly. We ticked off the job of getting them put away and listed. It was Monday morning. About 30 lost men from other companies of the 6 of the 1500 appealed to me for help. My lieutenant, who I had had sleeping, came out. We ran off breakfast, issuing the men's kits just as we issued the food.

Monday we indexed the local board's papers. I forgot to say I sent over for a Y. M. C. A. man who came over immediately with letter heads, telegram blanks and has stamps in the street at 5 o'clock every night.

Not having had any sleep since Sunday morning 6 o'clock, I went to bed 12 o'clock Monday night. We have waited all day for the doctors. Our local board cards for the personnel have been sent over to them. We are running a company unit, organization established.

Rejuvenation Always Possible. There is rejuvenation in exercise, in play, in care for personal appearance. And there is an economic influence in external rejuvenation which reacts upon the mentality, keeping the individual alert and up-to-date. Youth finds its golden chances in the present era; they are not denied to the older man who has not lost his grip—or who can regain it.

Cimorrelli Arraigned on Charge of Resisting an Officer.

An echo of the "Fat him up, Jack" Saucier's dog case was heard in county court today when Joseph Cimorrelli of Glasco was arraigned before Judge McNamee upon a charge of resisting an officer.

Through his attorney, Judge William D. Brannier, Cimorrelli pleaded not guilty, with 20 days in which to make any change or amendment to this plea. It is alleged that a dog belonging to the dog is dead now. Mr. Constable Victor Reynolds of Saugerties, Reynolds was rounding up alleged unlicensed dogs and it is claimed that when he tried to capture Cimorrelli's dog that Cimorrelli sicked the dog on Reynolds, and that Reynolds was bitten several times on both hands.

The regular monthly meeting of the Esopus Unit of the New York Federation of Agriculture was held Monday evening at Ulster Park. The meeting was attended from all sections of the town and great interest and enthusiasm was shown, one topic of discussion being the recent editorial in The Freeman in regard to the Federation. A delegate will be sent to the Albany convention of the Federation on June 7th, and a special meeting will be held Monday evening, June 10, to receive his report.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 5.—Vigorous buying marked the trading at the opening of the stock market today with the steel industrial continuing the most prominent features, and those stocks making gains ranging from one to over two points. Baldwin was in urgent demand, advancing 1 1/2 to 9 1/2, and although it reacted to 9 1/4, renewed accumulation caused a rally to 9 1/2. U. S. Steel moved up one point to 10 1/2, and Midvale rose 3/4 to 5 1/2. The greatest strength in the initial trading was shown in Tobacco Products which rose 1/2 to 65 1/2. Cigar stores advanced 1/4 to 26 1/2. General Motors opened up 3 points at 125 but reacted to 123 1/2. The copper stocks reflected renewed accumulation, both Anaconda and Inspiration making fractional gains. Important banking interests were buyers of Reading which rose 1 point to 9 1/4.

A demonstration against the copper stocks, which occurred shortly after noon, was followed by heaviness in many other issues. Chino Copper, after declining to 35 1/2, rallied to 39 1/2, but yielded again to 38 1/2. Baldwin locomotive sold down to 8 3/4, a loss of nearly 3 points. New Haven showed a firmer tone, rallying from 40 1/4 to 41 1/2.

The market closed irregular today; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

SIX U. S. DIVISIONS IN COMBAT ZONE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 5.—Military officials today estimated that the United States now has in the actual combat zone in France at least six complete divisions in addition to the troops that are brigaded with the British and the French. There are also a large number in reserve. It was stated, so that American participation in the fighting on a serious scale is possible. In the fighting referred to in yesterday's official statements it is understood here that one independent American division was engaged.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The funeral of Mrs. Leah Johnson, who died on Saturday at her home in Shults Corners, town of Saugerties, was held on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. H. W. Brink of Woodstock, officiated. Interment was in Woodstock cemetery.

Mrs. Dorinda Chambers, wife of Arker C. Chambers, died in this city Tuesday, June 4, aged 46 years. She is survived by her husband and one son, Merrill Chambers, of Samsomville, and one sister, Mrs. Irene Miller of Wayward. The funeral will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the M. E. Church, Samsomville. Interment in Samsomville cemetery.

Harry V. Van Aken, who fell out of a tree in the yard of his home on Washington Ave., Saugerties last week and broke his leg, died Tuesday morning from an infection of the bone. The boy was in his 14th year and is survived by his widowed mother and one young brother. The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Mount Marion cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mr. Byron D. Davis, who died in Kingston on Saturday, was held at her late home, Main street, Saugerties, on Tuesday afternoon and attended by many friends. The services were conducted by the Rev. J. V. Wemple of the Reformed Church, assisted by the Rev. David M. Hunter of Newburgh, and formerly of Saugerties. Interment was in Trinity cemetery.

John Farnbeck died at his home in Port Ewan Tuesday evening after a long illness. He was a resident of that village for a number of years and was highly respected by all who knew him. He was a member of the Port Ewan M. E. Church. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Ellen Lane one son, John Farnbeck, Jr., of Port Ewan, and one daughter, Mrs. John L. Jones of Kingston. The funeral will be held from the late residence Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock with interment in the Port Ewan cemetery.

The funeral of John Behan was held from his late residence, 53 Pine Grove avenue, this morning at 9 o'clock and from St. Mary's Church at 10 o'clock. There were a mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Very Rev. John J. Hickey. The church was filled with relatives and friends who gathered to pay their last respects to the deceased. Mr. Behan was born in the town of Kingston 49 years ago and was a stone cutter by trade. Besides his wife he is survived by two daughters, Mary E. and Margaret R. and one brother, William, and four sisters, Mrs. J. B. Kelly, Mrs. Margaret McSpirt, Mrs. Catherine Crumley, Mrs. Peter A. McMahon, and one brother, William. All of this city. The bearers were John McSpirt, John McMahon, Peter Maher and Charles Daler. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot, St. Mary's cemetery, where a short service was conducted by Dean Hickey. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Grogan and Scherer.

Many friends in the city, and others who have had close relations in active professional and social circles with one of Kingston's most promising young men, will be deeply grieved to learn of the death of Joseph Jansen Haserouck of this city, which occurred in Middletown, N. Y., at 1:50 this morning. Carr & Son have gone for the remains which will be brought back some time today. The young man, 33 years and one month old, was being treated for a nervous breakdown in that city. Since February 1, 1917, when he returned home from Canada where his professional duties had engaged him for some time, his health had begun to decline so that he was not afterwards able to engage in employment. The young man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Haserouck, reside at 130 St. James street, where he made his home when not out in his fields of labor. Abram Haserouck is the treasurer of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Co. As an expert m. n. g. engineer Joseph Jansen Haserouck's engagements kept him most of the time away from the city. He was engaged on large work in mining and railroad activities in this country, Mexico and Canada. His profession dearly and stood high in its technical and practical work. Mrs. W. P. F. Rogers of New York city, is his only sister. Lieut. Louis H. Haserouck, his only brother, is at San Antonio, Texas, where he is employed as an instructor by the government. Wire messages have been sent to both sister and brother and to other close friends at a distance. Born in this city in May, 1885, he was graduated at Yale when twenty-one years of age, in 1906. For five years he was in the emplor of a large mining company. In January, 1914, he went out in his professional capacity with the Yale Peruvian expedition which was under the command of Hiram Bingham. In that trip the party spent two years in highly important scientific work taking them through Bolivia, Peru and Chile, returning in December, 1916. His wide experiences in mining engineering took him into Mexico, Utah and Canada. At this time the day of burial has not been decided on. But his last resting place will be in the Wyck cemetery. The family has yet to learn when his brother at San Antonio can reach the city and that may have much to do with fixing the date of the funeral.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Celebrate 20th Wedding Anniversary.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ellsworth, 14 Wilbur avenue, Monday, the occasion being their twentieth wedding anniversary. The house was prettily decorated with flowers and there was a large attendance of friends from this city and out of town. Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth received many handsome presents, consisting of cut glass, china, linen and silver. A buffet lunch was served and the guests departed at a late hour, wishing the couple a long and happy wedded life.

Travis-Foley.

Miss Marie Foley of Cairo, formerly of this city, and Dean Travis, of Cairo, were quietly married at 10:30 o'clock at St. Patrick's Church, Catskill, by the Rev. E. J. Fitzgerald. The bride was charming in a suit of dove blue serge with a black picture hat trimmed with ostrich plumes. She carried a bouquet of roses. Her bridesmaid was Miss Nellie Hannon of this city, who wore a suit of blue serge with a Georgette of the same shade. She carried pink roses. The bestman was Howard Muller of Catskill. After a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., and other points of interest, they will reside in Cairo.

Drowned Playing Tag.

Losing his footing on the edge of the public pier at the foot of South street, Newburgh, during the progress of a game of "tag" Monday evening, Thomas Fitzpatrick, 7 years old, fell into the Hudson river and was drowned.

Builders Meet Tonight.

There will be a special meeting of the Kingston Builders' Exchange this evening at the American Mechanics' Hall, Henry street, at six o'clock. Every member is urged to be present.

A Good Reason.

"Why don't you accept him if he has offered to have his life insured in your favor?"

"Because if he was a good risk for the insurance company, he'd be a bad one for me."

Just Reward.

Wearly Willie—Dat's the worst pie I ever tasted.

Max Jones—Want just a minute and I'll give you a dollar. That pie was baked by my husband's mother.

Crowded Out.

Mrs. Flathunter—Are there any rats or mice in this apartment?

Mr. Cubicle, the Agent—Only mice. We can't supply space for rats at less than $150 a month.

The Proper Time.

"About what time was it when the witness was giving his evidence that the prisoner lost countenance?"

"I suppose it was when his face fell."

Wrong Again.

McGonigle—I think she's a brazen dame, Louis!

Hanson—You're wrong, Ed; she won't even ride in a stripped roadster.

ERADICATION OF ALL PESTS

First Step Should Be to Clean House and Then Thoroughly Spray or Paint Interior.

The first step to eradicate the pests which live in cracks and crevices in poultry houses is to clean the house. All litter, nest material and droppings should be removed. Then spray or paint thoroughly the entire surface of the house and literally flood all cracks and inside of nests with a 5 per cent spray and do the work thoroughly.

Dirty Fresh Eggs.

A fresh egg that has contracted dirt in any form can never be made to appear quite so attractive as one laid in a clean nest by a clean hen.

Avoid Diseased Fowls.

There are those who never breed a fowl that has once been subjected to disease, particularly in a malignant form.

Variety of Feeds.

Variety is not only the spice of life, but in poultry feeds and feeding it is one element that stands for success.

Chariots in Ancient Warfare.

The Egyptian and Roman chariots served not only to bring the soldiers to a desired point and to overwhelm advancing masses of infantry, but also as a bulwark, a sort of improvised fortress behind which marksmen sheltered themselves in the thick of the fight. The curved front of the carriage body served as a shield even though it was at least nineteen centuries behind its modern cousin, the iron-plated, self-propelled motor tank.

Back Home With Abe

By C. B. LEWIS

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

In the country, when a young man and a young woman are courting, it is referred to as "settin' up together."

Abe Wright and Polly Andrews had "set up" a hundred nights in her father's farmhouse kitchen before they became engaged. The son or daughter of a farmer is not apt to rush into love and matrimony as a young man dwelling in a town. There may not be as much formality between them, but they look upon matrimony more seriously.

There are a score of object lessons daily before their eyes. A farmer, to succeed, must be ever rising early and toiling late. His horses or his oxen get more rest than he does. He can know very little of the comforts and pleasures of life and see to his acres as well.

And if he works long hours his wife works longer ones. Her work must be done on time as well as his. She may live within five miles of a village and yet not enter it once a year. He may be a subscriber to a county paper, and yet she cannot spare the time to read its contents.

The two young folks saw and experienced all this and much more, and yet the instincts and sentiments of humanity brought them together. They would marry, as thousands of others in their situation had done, and hope that their future might work out better.

Miss Polly said "yes" to the proposal of marriage, but the very next day she admitted to her mother that sometimes she thought she loved Abe and sometimes she thought she didn't. She had never been ten miles away from home. The only men she had ever come in contact with had been of her class, or agents or peddlers. She knew there was a big world outside of hers, but she had never peeped at it. She had a bit of romance about her, and sometimes she longed to see the brave men and fair women that the books told her about.

Abe Wright was going to marry and acquire a farm of his own. Therefore, he whistled as he went about his work.

He had heard that a girl sometimes went back on her pledge, but he was as sure of Polly Andrews as he was of the sun.

One day the girl ran over to Farmer Waldron's on an errand. She found a strange young man there, who was introduced to her as Brian Montgomery. Even if he hadn't been good-looking and had taking ways with him, his name would have won her favor.

How did the name of Abe Wright compare with that of Brian Montgomery?

The one belonged to the drudger of the soil—the other to a gentleman of the world, who had gold filling in his teeth—who wore creases in his trousers—who disdained paper collars; and socks at ten cents a pair were not for him. Mr. Brian Montgomery, from New York, Chicago and Boston, as he announced, must surely be one of those brave and gallant men she had read and dreamed of.

When Miss Polly had departed for home, Mrs. Waldron said to the cousin: "Now, Brian, you must not set out to turn that girl's head. She is engaged to a steady young farmer, and you mustn't be the cause of a quarrel between them."

"Oh, it will be a mild—a very mild flirtation," he laughed in reply. "How can I put in a month here and not flirt with the only girl for a mile around?"

And a day or two later the young man came over to the house of Farmer Andrews and introduced himself and made himself very much at home.

STREET SWEEPER
HIT BY AN AUTO

Alfred Smith of No. 25 Second ave., a street sweeper in the employ of the board of public works, was knocked down by a Ford car driven by Andrew Loucks of Grand Gorge, on Broadway, near Chester street, on Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock. The injured man was conveyed by Mr. Loucks to police headquarters at the request of Officer Dempsey, where he was attended by Dr. John F. Larkin, and later removed to his home. No bones were found broken but he was badly shaken up and bruised about the body.

Artificial Indigo.
Chemists discovered by research years ago the process of making artificial indigo, but it was only when a thermometer broke in the solution that they found out now to make the indigo cheap enough to be commercially valuable. The mercury so increased the yield of a certain acid that the process was cheapened sufficiently to make artificial indigo less expensive than natural indigo.

SLUGGERS FOR SOLDIER BOYS IN FRANCE

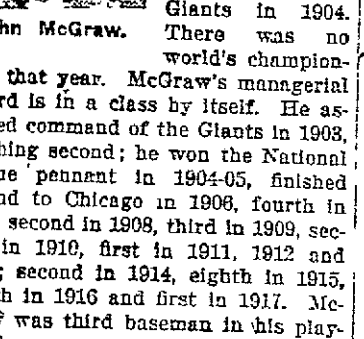

The Y. M. C. A. has mobilized 144,000 baseball bats for use of the American soldiers overseas. This spring the back yards behind the fighting front will resound to crack of bats and cries of "at a boy" when "Sammy" is not otherwise occupied. Maybe the bats will be used in a pinch to drive the Germans home.

MCGRAW WON MANY PENNANTS

Giants Defeat Connie Mack's Athletics in 1905 for Championship of the World.

John J. McGraw, the little Napoleon of baseball, has won six pennants and one world's championship with the New York Giants. Under the leadership of McGraw, the Giants defeated Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics for the baseball gofalon in 1905. McGraw won his first National league pennant with the Giants in 1904. There was no world's championship that year. McGraw's managerial record is in a class by itself. He assumed command of the Giants in 1903, finishing second; he won the National league pennant in 1904-05, finished second to Chicago in 1906, fourth in 1907, second in 1908, third in 1909, second in 1910, first in 1911, 1912 and 1913; second in 1914, eighth in 1915, fourth in 1916 and first in 1917. McGraw was third baseman in his playing days.

BASEBALL STORIES

Clarence Rowland is using two and three pitchers in a game, just as he did last year.

Tom Clarke, former Cincinnati catcher, has been purchased by the Yankees. Tom was a boldout.

George Stallings is hard up for twirlers and is trying out Canavan of Worcester and Heame of Toronto.

Justin Fitzgerald, the Phillies' outfielder, has escaped army service because of a bad leg and a weak heart.

Fritz Malsel is playing with new enthusiasm now that he is slated to cover third base regularly for the Browns.

Jack Doyle of Chicago, former first baseman for the New York Giants, has been appointed an umpire in the Western league.

Members of the army and navy will be admitted free to one game in each series played at the Philadelphia American park.

Ball games in St. Paul and Minneapolis may be started as late as five o'clock to take advantage of the daylight saving plan.

Percy Houghton, president of the Braves, thinks that three wide ones should mean a base on balls in order to increase batting.

Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, will enlist in the navy as soon as he can get permission from his draft board to make the change.

Clark Griffith does not hesitate to say he expects his team to get a slow start. Washington fans want to know if it ever will get under way.

If Kilduff is drafted the Cubs will lose their best bet in the infield. Peterkin has been fielding spotlessly and hitting the ball hard and safely.

Dave Bancroft of the Phillies, who was only a fair hitter last season, seems to have sharpened his eye a bit, as he is one of the best batters in the league.

The loss of Leslie Nunamaker to the St. Louis Browns makes it imperative for Bobby Quinn to do some more swapping or go out and buy a youngster in the minors.

It is estimated that it cost Chas. Weeghman, president of the Chicago Nationals, just $16,663.67 for each of the three games that Alexander pitched before being called into the army.
